COLD WAVE COMING OUT OF THE WEST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The mild temperatures that have prevailed in the middle west for four days came to an end today when a cold wave swept down from the northwest. With the exception of a small area about Chicago the entire west was gripped by storms of snow and sleet. The storms caused big property losses in many sections.

In the last 24 hours the coldest temperature was reported from Havre, Mont., where the mercury registered 54 degrees below zero. Heavy snowfall was recorded as far south as Kansas City. In the southwest heavy rains were reported.

All of northern Wisconsin was held in the grip of a heavy sleet storm. With the exception of one line into Appleton, all telephone and telegraph lines were out of commission in the storm-swept area. At Sheboygan many factories were threatened with losses as the Sheboygan river continued to rise.

More than $100,000 damage was inflicted upon the territory surrounding Belleville, Ill., when a storm of cyclonic proportions struck there. The steeple of the German M. E. Church was toppled through the roof and the roof of the Hotel Tremaine was lifted off and carried a block. A deluge of rain followed the blow.

The administration buildings of the state prison farm at Cummins, Ark., were saved from the floods raging there by the action of 500 convicts who built a levee 125 yards long around the threatened portion of the farm. The Arkansas river was still rising there.

Since noon yesterday more than eight inches of snow has fallen in Duluth, Minn. A forty mile wind piled the snow high in drifts.

CITY WATER IS WELL FILTERED

And There is Need That it Should be as the Raw Water Contains Many Bacteria—Filters 99.98 Per Cent Efficient.

The warm spell of the past few days has melted the snow in the mountains to such an extent that the streams supplying the city reservoirs are raised above normal and the water in the reservoirs is so roily that the water department has been forced to use larger quantities of sulphate of alumina to remove the turbidity. The quality of the filtered water, however, remains as pure as usual.

That the water being supplied the city is unusually pure and clean is shown by the daily reports of the chemist employed by the water department who is stationed at the filter house and makes daily reports as to the condition of the water. His report showed that the raw water contained 4,630 bacteria per cubic centimeter when received at the filter house and after it had passed through the filtration plant the water conained but 2 bacteria per cubic centimeter showing a removal of 99.98 per cubic centimeter which showed that the water as delivered to the city was practically sterile. This was the water supplied on the high pressure. The raw water on the low pressure showed in its raw condition 8,300 bacteria per cubic centimeter and after it had been filtered but 2 bacteria per cubic centimeter, a removal of 99.96.

The B. Coli also showed in the raw water on both the high and the low pressure but after filtration it was entirely removed.

This is a remarkable showing considering the turbidity of the water caused by the thaw.

THERMOMETERS SHOW 80 DEGREES

This morning at 10 o'clock the two thermometers hung on the Rondout side of the city hall registered 80 degrees above zero. The thermometers, however, were exposed to the full rays of the sun. The Freeman thermometer which is hung in the shade registered 66 degrees. Today was without question one of the hottest January days on record and it was actual discomfort to pedestrians who wore their winter overcoats, and summer underwear would not have come amiss.

So warm has been the weather of the past few days that the ice fields in the river have moved out and there was no stationary ice in the river today as far as one could see looking north or south from Kingston Point. Thursday afternoon the ice fields at Athens moved out and there is no ice except floating cakes at Hudson. Icemen are discouraged over the outlook and say that the chances of securing an ice crop this season from the river are very slim, even though the cold wave reported in the west should reach as far as Kingston.

Brown Says He Didn't.

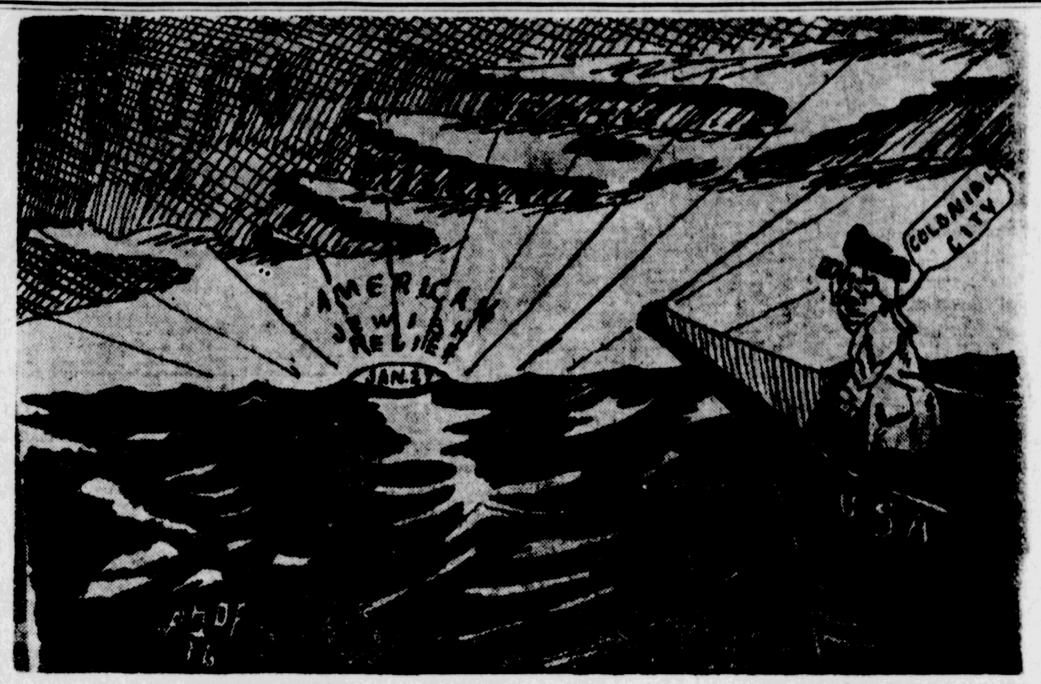
A fight among employes of the O. & W. railroad was brought to the attention of Recorder Lang this morning when John C. Bush of Accord had William Brown of this city arrested on a charge of assault in the third degree. Bush claims that Brown jumped on his back while he was at work, throwing him to the floor of the coal car in which he was working, and then punched him three times in the head and face. Brown when arraigned, entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was adjourned to Monday morning to allow Brown to secure some witnesses.

A Question from Kingston.

In The Tribune of this morning under the heading "His Successor Can Use It," appears a letter from Hasbrouck Alliger of this city, who asks: "Of what use would 'Preparedness' be in the hands of a commander-in-chief 'too proud to fight.'"

Grip At City Home.

There are six cases of grip among the inmates at the City Home. All of the attacks are light, however.



JEWISH RELIEF TAG DAY RECEIPTS

More Than $1,300 Received in Aid of War Sufferers and More Returns Are Yet to Come—Those Who Worked and Those Who Gave.

The Tag Day operated in this city on Thursday, as a part of the great country-wide movement for the raising of funds for the Jewish sufferers from the war in Europe, was a big success, and that in face of the fact that only four days were given for the perfecting of plans for such a wide-spread undertaking. But every one worked with such a will! If the district turned in large sums, that was what was wanted, but first and foremost the money was wanted for those who were starving and dying of want and destitution in Europe, and with that in their minds and hearts, the workers seemed tireless and irresistible. That over $1,200 was realized shows just how well they did work, especially when it is taken into consideration that the largest single amount given was $35, by Frank Forman. The districts, their workers and the amounts turned in were as follows:

District 2. Strand, Ferry street, downtown post office, ferry; Miss Anna Stone, assisted by Arthur Schon, Harry Cohen, Eva Goldman and Eva Stone—$19.11.

This makes a total for the districts of $764.25. The district turning in the largest amount was that of Miss Etta Furman, District 25, with the fine sum of $99.02 and Miss Furman has the promise of enough more to reach a little over the $100 mark.

The Kingston Branch of the Jewish War Relief Committee would thank all above mentioned persons, the armory people, W. Davis Hawk, for the use of his automobile, the Kingston Consolidated R. R. Company for the donation of car tickets for the workers, and all others who in any way assisted in making this Tag Day such a success.

Owing to the shortness of time in which to arrange this work, it is possible that a number of people, willing to give to the cause were not approached, and any such person wishing yet to contribute may send their money or check to Louis Lankisky, 149 Hasbrouck avenue, treasurer of the Kingston Branch of the Jewish War Relief Committee; or to Selig Kohan, 70 Chambers street, financial secretary of the same organization.

NEWBURGH FAILED TO ASK TERMINAL

Action a Few Years Ago Would Have Obviated Delay in Present Intimates State Engineer Williams—Seek Unexpended Balances.

Because Newburgh failed to urge its claim for barge canal terminals at the time the appropriation act was drawn and such terminals were definitely located, it will experience delay in getting state aid for this work. That, in substance, is the intimation of State Engineer Frank M. Williams. He has written the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce to that end and suggests that an effort be made to secure unexpended balances from the fund set aside for miscellaneous terminals.

According to the state engineer, the best method is to secure an early inspection by the superintendent of public works who is charged with reporting on terminal applications to the canal board. In his annual report to the legislature, the state engineer says that he will recommend consideration of the needs of the situation and the use of unexpended moneys for proposed terminals.

"I thoroughly appreciate," said Mr. Williams in his letter, "the advantage that would accrue if terminals could be located in the several Hudson river cities." He also expressed regret that Newburgh did not urge its claims before the terminal commission as did Rouse's Point, Plattsburgh and Port Henry together with many cities on the line of the Erie canal.

Wilson Well Pleased.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Tired but plainly very well pleased over his experiences on his New York trip, President Wilson returned to Washington today for a brief time before starting on his "invasion of the west." The president made it very plain that he felt that his enthusiastic reception in the metropolis could be accepted as a "good omen" for the final success of his preparedness plans. The trip home was uneventful and as the president was sleeping when his train arrived his car was shunted onto a side track until he awoke. The party was being driven to the White House.

ROUSING REVIVAL MEETING HELD

Simplicity the Key Note of the Service in St. James's M. E. Church at Which the Rev. Dr. Baragwanath Was the Preacher.

(Official Report.)

We have a service conducted each night at the St. James M. E. Church which is charming in its simplicity; interesting in its originality; helpful in its singleness of purpose; vital because of its far reaching, yet eternal truths.

Last evening nine hundred people listened with pleasure to the messages conveyed not only by the choir of one hundred voices chosen for their talent, but to the chairmen of two delegations, one from the Kirkland and one from L. S. Winne & Company, and as Chairman Cranston said in reply, "Their words were filled with courage, an upward look. It is not what you have to say but the character of what you have to say."

These thoughts, combined with such hymns as "All Things Are Yours," "There is Power in Blood," "Closer to Thee," "Nearer My God to Thee," "I Need Thee Every Hour," led by Rev. Grant Colfax Tullar, caused all to recall their wandering thoughts, and to listen to a simple, unadorned message. Truths which moved the heart to tenderness, and thrilled the deepest feelings of the soul.

Dr. Tullar was assisted at various times by several beautiful solos rendered by I. A. Meridith, who has a voice of wonderful quality. Among those sung were "I Am Thinking of that Beautiful Land," and Will There Be any Stars in My Crown?"

Then followed a sermon, simple, unadorned, given in that manner which lends to a noble man a peculiar serious dignity.

Dr. Baragwanath, pastor of the church in which the meeting was held, was the speaker. He said in part:

The words to which I invite your attention may be found in the 10th chapter of St. Matthew's gospel, part of the 30th verse, "He that is not with me is against me." It seems to me there could have been no misunderstanding of what the Master meant—"He that is not with me is against me." Even from this we can easily imagine some effects produced from Christ and His teaching. In the first place, he was free and unconventional as a teacher. Think of the places where he spoke, not always in the quiet of the synagogue. Wherever the people were, there was opportunity to preach; sometimes in the home, in the street, on the mountain, out in the desert, by the lake side. Once he stepped into a little boat and gave a sermon free and unconventional Then as to His methods: He was free also to break away from the customs that would restrain Him; His style was direct and plain; it was simplicity itself. He drew upon nature which was an open book to His hearers and upon His experience of life for His most telling and forceful illustrations. Its interpretations have the Old Testament and Scripture. Now all this produced certain definite effects upon the lives of the people. Jesus spoke of spiritual things and the people were amazed. Now such a striking personality and such a thrilling message were bound to stir up deep feeling among the people. There was feeling and expression of feeling. Some declared as they listened to him, "No man ever spoke like this man." Others declared he was mad. Some would cast him down to hell. Apparently there were three classes, but in truth there were only two. Jesus saw it and Jesus said it. First, those who sat up like men and women to be counted unafraid of the consequences whatever they might be. "He that is not with me is against me." Think of the multitudes today who, while not hostile are in sympathy with his ideas, what he has done in the most unmistakable way. Men assume in other matters an attitude of neutrality. Now, in some things we are divided, but there may be neutral ground to occupy. Sometimes there are new theories which are eagerly seized upon by the few. These are regarded with hostile feeling, and there is a line of division. Their attitude was that of watchful waiting. There are many parties, there are many lines of division, sometimes very distinct. Some believe in the highest kind of protection; others believe in free trade. Take the matter of preparedness which is in the thought of this nation at this time. Some believe in doing bigger things in the big way. Some believe in doing nothing at all. There is the old school clinging to old ideas in the old ways; there is the new school looking forward to the new school for new ways. Others are neither conservative nor radicals when you come to Christ and character. Neutrality is simply impossible.

"He that is not with me standing by my side is against me." It must be a verdict "for or against me." What is your verdict? "For Him or against Him?" The record includes his pathetic story of his tragic death in youth. "My God! My God! Why hast thous forsaken me!" In view of all this, are you for Him or are you against Him?

He comes by his spirit of quickening newness of life, wooing by suggestion, by tenderest solicitation, teaching you the need of his cleansing blood. Can you continue to strive against Him by striving against the ways of His spirit? "He that is not with me is against me." He comes in the completeness of his word—His perfect obedience which led to the path of the cross. He did what no mortal could do for us, and on the strength of what He did, He offered pardon free and holy. I do not claim to know just the process of how He came to pay the debt. It is the soul of all Christian theology. Jesus paid it all and to Him I owe all. He has the right to your love. Have you freely given it to Him? Have you rendered your devotion or do you deny the validity of His claims? Jesus says: "He that is not with me is against me." Jesus is not only my guide but by life; I am waiting but Jesus is my strength. I am ignorant but Jesus is my master. I am a sinner but Jesus takes away sin; I am blind; I am weak; I am hungry; I am unclothed; but in Jesus I am clothed in glory. With joy shall I lift up my head. The universal law: I must lay me down at last to die, but in Jesus I live an endless life upon which time can never breathe, upon which death can never call.

Some have not decided. You are still undecided. Now indecision is a delusion—it is a snare. It is not safe ground upon which to build an edifice. It is not the great harbor of light, but it is the cruel rock. What you see is not the harbor light offering safety from the beating storms outside, but one to wreck our faithless lives. "He who is not with me is against me." It is for us to stand up, then, if we are men and women of courage. No one wants to be against Christ. Christ wants to help all that labor and are heavy laden.

I was closing a service in a distant city down the river. It seemed to be an ordinary kind of service. There might be somebody there who wanted to accept Christ. We came to the last hymn. Sitting way down yonder a man I knew, a chief of police of that city. I saw him rise. I did not know what he was going to do. He lifted his hand and said: "May I say a word?" Some people thought that the unusual was going to happen. "May I say a word?" I think it would be unmanly of me to declare my allegiance to Christ if I refused him permission to speak. "While I have been sitting here, I have decided to be Christ's disciple." The man had the courage to stand up all alone. That is the kind of men we love to see. God gives courage like that. "He that is not with me is against me." Stand, stand up for God! He will help us to be courageous.

Meeting tonight at St. James's Church at 7:30.

Delegation of the public schools will attend.

Meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hall Sunday, at 3 o'clock. Myron Tullar will speak on "Delusions."

NEW CASES OF SCARLET FEVER

Several more cases of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria have been reported to Health Officer Frank A. Johnston at the board of health office, making a total of 17 cases of scarlet fever and 8 of diphtheria in the city since the first of the month. Fortunately the majority of the scarlet fever cases are light attacks and the health officer and Sanitary Inspector Dr. Harold Clarke are using every effort to prevent an epidemic of the diseases. As fast as an attending physician reports a case the health omcer and the sanitary inspector promptly quarantine the case and use every effort to prevent its spread in the neighborhood.

The one new diphtheria case reported is that of Mrs. Florian Wingert at No. 86 Cedar street, while the Wingert baby, sixteen months old, has scarlet fever.

The other scarlet fever cases are: Charles and Elizabeth Boice, No. 65 Cornell street.

Raymond Kidd, No. 46 Franklin street.

To Preach in High Falls.

COLD WAVE COMING OUT OF THE WEST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The mild temperatures that have prevailed in the middle west for four days came to an end today when a cold wave swept down from the northwest. With the exception of a small area about Chicago the entire west was gripped by storms of snow and sleet. The storms caused big property losses in many sections.

In the last 24 hours the coldest temperature was reported from Havre, Mont., where the mercury registered 54 degrees below zero. Heavy snowfall was recorded as far south as Kansas City. In the southwest heavy rains were reported.

All of northern Wisconsin was held in the grip of a heavy sleet storm. With the exception of one line into Appleton, all telephone and telegraph lines were out of commission in the storm-swept area. At Sheboygan many factories were threatened with losses as the Sheboygan river continued to rise.

More than $100,000 damage was inflicted upon the territory surrounding Belleville, Ill., when a storm of cyclonic proportions struck there. The steeple of the German M. E. Church was toppled through the roof and the roof of the Hotel Tremaine was lifted off and carried a block. A deluge of rain followed the blow.

The administration buildings of the state prison farm at Cummins, Ark., were saved from the floods raging there by the action of 500 convicts who built a levee 125 yards long around the threatened portion of the farm. The Arkansas river was still rising there.

Since noon yesterday more than eight inches of snow has fallen in Duluth, Minn. A forty mile wind piled the snow high in drifts.

CITY WATER IS WELL FILTERED

And There is Need That it Should be as the Raw Water Contains Many Bacteria—Filters 99.98 Per Cent Efficient.

The warm spell of the past few days has melted the snow in the mountains to such an extent that the streams supplying the city reservoirs are raised above normal and the water in the reservoirs is so roily that the water department has been forced to use larger quantities of sulphate of alumina to remove the turbidity. The quality of the filtered water, however, remains as pure as usual.

That the water being supplied the city is unusually pure and clean is shown by the daily reports of the chemist employed by the water department who is stationed at the filter house and makes daily reports as to the condition of the water. His report showed that the raw water contained 4,630 bacteria per cubic centimeter when received at the filter house and after it had passed through the filtration plant the water conained but 2 bacteria per cubic centimeter showing a removal of 99.98 per cubic centimeter which showed that the water as delivered to the city was practically sterile This was the water supplied on the high pressure. The raw water on the low pressure showed in its raw condition 8,300 bacteria per cubic centimeter and after it had been filtered but 2 bacteria per cubic centimeter, a removal of 99.96.

The B. Coli also showed in the raw water on both the high and the low pressure but after filtration it was entirely removed.

This is a remarkable showing considering the turbidity of the water caused by the thaw.

THERMOMETERS SHOW 80 DEGREES

This morning at 10 o'clock the two thermometers hung on the Rondout side of the city hall registered 80 degrees above zero. The thermometers, however, were exposed to the full rays of the sun. The Freeman thermometer which is hung in the shade registered 66 degrees. Today was without question one of the hottest January days on record and it was actual discomfort to pedestrians who wore their winter overcoats, and summer underwear would not have come amiss.

So warm has been the weather of the past few days that the ice fields in the river have moved out and there was no stationary ice in the river today as far as one could see looking north or south from Kingston Point. Thursday afternoon the ice fields at Athens moved out and there is no ice except floating cakes at Hudson. Icemen are discouraged over the outlook and say that the chances of securing an ice crop this season from the river are very slim, even though the cold wave reported in the west should reach as far as Kingston.

Brown Says He Didn't.

A fight among employes of the O. & W. railroad was brought to the attention of Recorder Lang this morning when John C. Bush of Accord had William Brown of this city arrested on a charge of assault in the third degree. Bush claims that Brown jumped on his back while he was at work, throwing him to the floor of the coal car in which he was working, and then punched him three times in the head and face. Brown when arraigned, entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was adjourned to Monday morning to allow Brown to secure some witnesses.

A Question from Kingston.

In The Tribune of this morning under the heading "His Successor Can Use It," appears a letter from Hasbrouck Alliger of this city, who asks: "Of what use would 'Preparedness' be in the hands of a commander-in-chief 'too proud to fight.'"

Grip At City Home.

There are six cases of grip among the inmates at the City Home. All of the attacks are light, however.

JEWISH RELIEF TAG DAY RECEIPTS

More Than $1,300 Received in Aid of War Sufferers and More Returns Are Yet to Come—Those Who Worked and Those Who Gave.

The Tag Day operated in this city on Thursday, as a part of the great country-wide movement for the raising of funds for the Jewish sufferers from the war in Europe, was a big success, and that in face of the fact that only four days were given for the perfecting of plans for such a wide-spread undertaking. But every one worked with such a will! If the district turned in large sums, that was what was wanted, but first and foremost the money was wanted for those who were starving and dying of want and destitution in Europe, and with that in their minds and hearts, the workers seemed tireless and irresistible. That over $1,200 was realized shows just how well they did work, especially when it is taken into consideration that the largest single amount given was $35, by Frank Forman. The districts, their workers and the amounts turned in were as follows:

District 2. Strand, Ferry street, downtown post office, ferry; Miss Anna Stone, assisted by Arthur Schon, Harry Cohen, Eva Goldman and Eva Stone—$19.11.

This makes a total for the districts of $764.25. The district turning in the largest amount was that of Miss Etta Furman, District 25, with the fine sum of $99.02 and Miss Furman has the promise of enough more to reach a little over the $100 mark.

NEWBURGH FAILED TO ASK TERMINAL

Action a Few Years Ago Would Have Obviated Delay in Present Intimates State Engineer Williams—Seek Unexpended Balances.

Because Newburgh failed to urge its claim for barge canal terminals at the time the appropriation act was drawn and such terminals were definitely located, it will experience delay in getting state aid for this work. That, in substance, is the intimation of State Engineer Frank M. Williams. He has written the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce to that end and suggests that an effort be made to secure unexpended balances from the fund set aside for miscellaneous terminals.

According to the state engineer, the best method is to secure an early inspection by the superintendent of public works who is charged with reporting on terminal applications to the canal board. In his annual report to the legislature, the state engineer says that he will recommend consideration of the needs of the situation and the use of unexpended moneys for proposed terminals.

"I thoroughly appreciate," said Mr. Williams in his letter, "the advantage that would accrue if terminals could be located in the several Hudson river cities." He also expressed regret that Newburgh did not urge its claims before the terminal commission as did Rouse's Point, Plattsburgh and Port Henry together with many cities on the line of the Erie canal.

Wilson Well Pleased.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Tired but plainly very well pleased over his experiences on his New York trip, President Wilson returned to Washington today for a brief time before starting on his "invasion of the west." The president made it very plain that he felt that his enthusiastic reception in the metropolis could be accepted as a "good omen" for the final success of his preparedness plans. The trip home was uneventful and as the president was sleeping when his train arrived his car was shunted onto a side track until he awoke. The party was being driven to the White House.

ROUSING REVIVAL MEETING HELD

Simplicity the Key Note of the Service in St. James's M. E. Church at Which the Rev. Dr. Baragwanath Was the Preacher.

(Official Report.)

We have a service conducted each night at the St. James M. E. Church which is charming in its simplicity; interesting in its originality; helpful in its singleness of purpose; vital because of its far reaching, yet eternal truths.

Last evening nine hundred people listened with pleasure to the messages conveyed not only by the choir of one hundred voices chosen for their talent, but to the chairmen of two delegations, one from the Kirkland and one from L. S. Winne & Company, and as Chairman Cranston said in reply, "Their words were filled with courage, an upward look. It is not what you have to say but the character of what you have to say."

These thoughts, combined with such hymns as "All Things Are Yours," "There is Power in Blood," "Closer to Thee," "Nearer My God to Thee," "I Need Thee Every Hour," led by Rev. Grant Colfax Tullar, caused all to recall their wandering thoughts, and to listen to a simple, unadorned message. Truths which moved the heart to tenderness, and thrilled the deepest feelings of the soul.

Dr. Tullar was assisted at various times by several beautiful solos rendered by I. A. Meridith, who has a voice of wonderful quality. Among those sung were "I Am Thinking of that Beautiful Land," and Will There Be any Stars in My Crown?"

Then followed a sermon, simple, unadorned, given in that manner which lends to a noble man a peculiar serious dignity.

Dr. Baragwanath, pastor of the church in which the meeting was held, was the speaker. He said in part:

The words to which I invite your attention may be found in the 10th chapter of St. Matthew's gospel, part of the 30th verse, "He that is not with me is against me." It seems to me there could have been no misunderstanding of what the Master meant—"He that is not with me is against me." Even from this we can easily imagine some effects produced from Christ and His teaching. In the first place, he was free and unconventional as a teacher. Think of the places where he spoke, not always in the quiet of the synagogue. Wherever the people were, there was opportunity to preach; sometimes in the home, in the street, on the mountain, out in the desert, by the lake side. Once he stepped into a little boat and gave a sermon free and unconventional. Then as to His methods: He was free also to break away from the customs that would restrain Him; His style was direct and plain; it was simplicity itself. He drew upon nature which was an open book to His hearers and upon His experience of life for His most telling and forceful illustrations. Its interpretations have the Old Testament and Scripture. Now all this produced certain definite effects upon the lives of the people. Jesus spoke of spiritual things and the people were amazed. Now such a striking personality and such a thrilling message were bound to stir up deep feeling among the people. There was feeling and expression of feeling. Some declared as they listened to him, "No man ever spoke like this man." Others declared he was mad. Some would cast him down to hell. Apparently there were three classes, but in truth there were only two. Jesus saw it and Jesus said it. First, those who sat up like men and women to be counted unafraid of the consequences whatever they might be. "He that is not with me is against me." Think of the multitudes today who, while not hostile are in sympathy with his ideas, what he has done in the most unmistakable way. Men assume in other matters an attitude of neutrality. Now, in some things we are divided, but there may be neutral ground to occupy. Sometimes there are new theories which are eagerly seized upon by the few. These are regarded with hostile feeling, and there is a line of division. Their attitude was that of watchful waiting. There are many parties, there are many lines of division, sometimes very distinct. Some believe in the highest kind of protection; others believe in free trade. Take the matter of preparedness which is in the thought of this nation at this time. Some believe in doing bigger things in the big way. Some believe in doing nothing at all. There is the old school clinging to old ideas in the old ways; there is the new school looking forward to the new school for new ways. Others are neither conservative nor radicals when you come to Christ and character. Neutrality is simply impossible.

"He that is not with me standing by my side is against me." It must be a verdict "for or against me." What is your verdict? "For Him or against Him?" The record includes his pathetic story of his tragic death in youth. "My God! My God! Why hast thous forsaken me!" In view of all this, are you for Him or are you against Him?

He comes by His spirit of quickening newness of life, wooing by suggestion, by tenderest solicitation, teaching you the need of his cleansing blood. Can you continue to strive against Him by striving against the ways of His spirit? "He that is not with me is against me." He comes in the completeness of His word—His perfect obedience which led to the path of the cross. He did what no mortal could do for us, and on the strength of what He did, He offered pardon free and holy. I do not claim to know just the process of how He came to pay the debt. It is the soul of all Christian theology. Jesus paid it all and to Him I owe all. He has the right to your love. Have you freely given it to Him? Have you rendered your devotion or do you deny the validity of His claims? Jesus says: "He that is not with me is against me." Jesus is not only my guide but by life; I am waiting but Jesus is my strength. I am ignorant but Jesus is my master. I am a sinner but Jesus takes away sin; I am blind; I am weak; I am hungry; I am unclothed; but in Jesus I am clothed in glory. With joy shall I lift up my head. The universal law: I must lay me down at last to die, but in Jesus I live an endless life upon which time can never breathe, upon which death can never call.

Some have not decided. You are still undecided. Now indecision is a delusion—it is a snare. It is not safe ground upon which to build an edifice. It is not the great harbor of light, but it is the cruel rock. What you see is not the harbor light offering safety from the beating [illegible] outside, but one to wreck our faithless lives. "He who is not with me is against me." It is for us to stand up, then, if we are men and women of courage. No one wants to be against Christ. Christ wants to help all that labor and are heavy laden.

I was closing a service in a distant city down the river. It seemed to be an ordinary kind of service. There might be somebody there who wanted to accept Christ. We came to the last hymn. Sitting way down yonder a man I knew, a chief of police of that city. I saw him rise. I did not know what he was going to do. He lifted his hand and said: "May I say a word?" Some people thought that the unusual was going to happen. "May I say a word?" I think it would be unmanly of me to declare my allegiance to Christ if I refused him permission to speak. "While I have been sitting here, I have decided to be Christ's disciple." The man had the courage to stand up all alone. That is the kind of men we love to see. God gives courage like that. "He that is not with me is against me." Stand, stand up for God! He will help us to be courageous.

Meeting tonight at St. James's Church at 7:30.

Delegation of the public schools will attend.

Meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hall Sunday, at 3 o'clock. Myron Tullar will speak on "Delusions."

NEW CASES OF SCARLET FEVER

Several more cases of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria have been reported to Health Officer Frank A. Johnston at the board of health office, making a total of 17 cases of scarlet fever and 8 of diphtheria in the city since the first of the month. Fortunately the majority of the scarlet fever cases are light attacks and the health officer and Sanitary Inspector Dr. Harold Clarke are using every effort to prevent an epidemic of the diseases. As fast as an attending physician reports a case the health omcer and the sanitary inspector promptly quarantine the case and use every effort to prevent its spread in the neighborhood.

The one new diphtheria case reported is that of Mrs. Florian Wingert at No. 56 Cedar street, while the Wingert baby, sixteen months old, has scarlet fever.

The other scarlet fever cases are: Charles and Elizabeth Boice, No. 63 Cornell street.

Raymond Kidd, No. 46 Franklin street.

To Preach in High Falls.

The Rev. Dr. P. N. Chase will preach in the High Falls Reformed Church Sunday morning and at the out appointments in the afternoon and evening.

YOUR BRONCHIAL TUBES

When a cold settles in the bronchial tubes, with that weakening, tickling cough, immediate treatment is very important. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present, your head jars with every cough and your chest may ache. This is no time for experimenting or delay—you must get Scott's Emulsion at once to drive out the cold which started the trouble, and it will check the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes.

If you have any symptoms of bronchitis, or even a stubborn cold, always remember that Scott's Emulsion has been relieving this trouble for forty years. It is free from alcohol or drugs. Refuse substitutes.

The Inside of the Hotel

Is the part that counts with the guest. The architect doesn't make a hotel, he only designs it. The builder doesn't make a hotel, he only builds it.

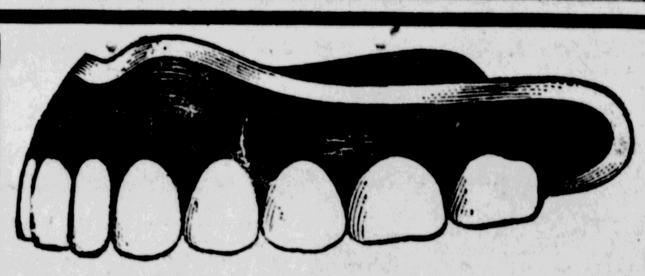
Don't select your stopping place from the outside. Look behind the front wall and see what is back of it.

The success of the Hotel Martinique is the personality back of it, which shows in the lobby, at the desk, in the restaurants and in the rooms.

The telephone attendants, the mail clerks, the room maids, even the bellboys reflect the personality back of the "House of Taylor." We don't preach prices only. We have pleasant, homelike rooms from $1.50 up.

In one and all you will find reflected the careful and insistent idea of guest-service that dominates every moment of your stay.

Located in the Heart of Things, only a golf stroke from the Pennsylvania Depot. On Broadway's throbbing centre. The Martinique is the logical New York home for those on business or pleasure bent.



PainlessExtractions

During the year 1915 the Cady Dental Offices in Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Newburgh and Middletown performed over ten thousand extractions. These operations were painless. Local Anaesthetics were used in the majority of cases but nitrous-oxide gas in a few. This wonderful record should make a deep impression on those who have teeth which require extraction and desire to have the operation done painlessly.

BRITISH LABOR SUPPORTS WAR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bristol, Eng., Jan. 28.—British labor, as represented in the trades union conference, went on record again today as supporting the government in its conduct of the war. As a result of resolutions adopted at the morning session it was made possible for the labor party's leaders who recently resigned from the cabinet to resume their posts. They are expected to do so.

The conference adopted by a vote of 1,674,000 to 269,000 a resolution confirming the action of the legislative committee of the labor party in allowing the organization's representatives to enter the coalition government cabinet.

By a vote of 1,622,000 to 495,000 the conference then adopted a resolution providing that the representatives of the labor party should remain in the ministry. On the heels of the adoption of these resolutions an effort was made to have the conference reconsider its action in condemning the government's military service bill, but his attempt failed. It was stated, however, that the cabinet was considering modifications of the measure that would render it more acceptable to the working classes.

It was dated April 1, 1913, and devises and bequeaths all of his real and personal property to his sister, Ella Wolven England. Song That Attracted Stella.

Five-year-old Stella was fond of going to Sunday school and she liked especially the singing. "Did they sing any pretty songs at Sunday school?" asked grandma of the little upon her return home. "Only one," replied the youngster. "It was something about Greenland's ice cream mountains."—Musical America.

Mr. Cumrox Speaks Out.

"Do you approve of slang?" "No," replied Mr. Cumrox. "It's too much trouble. It's as hard to know what slang is permissible as it is to guess the right implement for every course at a big dinner."

YOUR BRONCHIAL TUBES

When a cold settles in the bronchial tubes, with that weakening, tickling cough, immediate treatment is very important. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present, your head jars with every cough and your chest may ache. This is no time for experimenting or delay—you must get Scott's Emulsion at once to drive out the cold which started the trouble, and it will check the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes.

If you have any symptoms of bronchitis, or even a stubborn cold, always remember that Scott's Emulsion has been relieving this trouble for forty years. It is free from alcohol or drugs. Refuse substitutes.

The Inside of the Hotel

Is the part that counts with the guest. The architect doesn't make a hotel, he only designs it. The builder doesn't make a hotel, he only builds it.

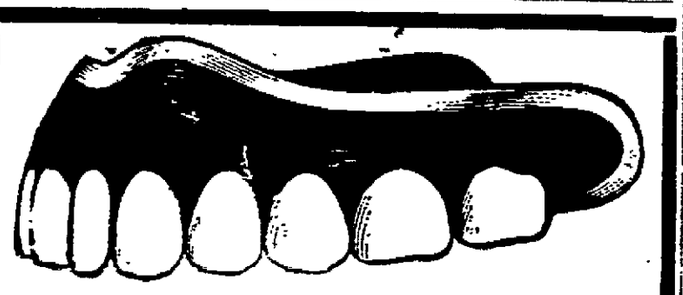
Don't select your stopping place from the outside. Look behind the front wall and see what is back of it.

The success of the Hotel Martinique is the personality back of it, which shows in the lobby, at the desk, in the restaurants and in the rooms.

The telephone attendants, the mail clerks, the room maids, even the bellboys reflect the personality back of the "House of Taylor." We don't preach prices only. We have pleasant, homelike rooms from $1.50 up.

In one and all you will find reflected the careful and insistent idea of guest-service that dominates every moment of your stay.

Located in the Heart of Things, only a golf stroke from the Pennsylvania Depot. On Broadway's throbbing centre. The Martinique is the logical New York home for those on business or pleasure bent.



PainlessExtractions

During the year 1915 the Cady Dental Offices in Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Newburgh and Middletown performed over ten thousand extractions. These operations were painless. Local Anaesthetics were used in the majority of cases but nitrous-oxide gas in a few. This wonderful record should make a deep impression on those who have teeth which require extraction and desire to have the operation done painlessly.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 28, 1916.

The chief characteristic of President Wilson's speeches heretofore has been their lack of living interest. They have read like the attempts of a schoolmaster to instruct his pupils in rhetoric without regard to the subject matter of the compositions. This criticism cannot be made of the three speeches he has just delivered in New York. In them he frankly admits that he was wrong last year when he told Congress that preparedness was not a pressing issue, and that he is no longer too proud to fight. This is encouraging, since the impression had become pretty general that Mr. Wilson believed that all knowledge was centered in him and that he could not be wrong in any of his opinions. There is always hope for a man when he discovers that he is fallible. Perhaps the most important thing the President said Thursday night was this:

I cannot tell you what the international relations of this country will be tomorrow; and I use the word literally. And I would not dare keep silent and let the country suppose that tomorrow was certain to be as bright as today.

Coming from our Chief Executive, this statement means more than if it emanated from an ordinary source. He would not use such language unless the possibility existed of our being dragged into the war. His knowledge of the situation must of necessity be more complete than that possessed by any newspaper—and still less by any individual. In the face of such a prospect, the man who preaches opposition to preparedness is morally, if not legally, a traitor to his country.

Although he mentioned no name, President Wilson's speech at the Biltmore quite obviously referred to Bryan when he mentioned the fact that "there are some humbugs that have been at large a long time," and when he added the observation that "the best way to silence any friend of yours whom you know to be a fool is to induce him to hire a hall." This is sure to elicit a response from Peace-at-Any-Price Bill. The latter is what is aptly called in the common speech a "smart fool." There are many such in every community. They are unable to grasp any important fact or idea, but they have a gift of gab which is quite impressive to individuals who are equally with themselves unable to think straight. After a while these humbugs are frequently found out, although many of them survive indefinitely in the esteem of a considerable portion of the public. Bryan is one of these. There is reason to believe that he still exerts a powerful influence in a large section of the West. If he uses this strength to thwart President Wilson's political ambitions, no harm will be done, but if he is able to block the plan of preparedness he will find himself reduced to the state of unimportance in which he should always have remained.

Whether or not your boy is raised to be a soldier, training for six months will make him one if he's worth having for one. That is what Major-General Leonard Wood, Commander of the Department of the East, told the House Military Committee at yesterday's hearing. General Wood's sensible system to meet the demands for a standing army of 220,000 men calls for a new form of enlistment, including a maximum term of two years. He would make the enlistment terms as attractive as possible to attract a higher grade of men to the army. Today, if ordered into Mexico, our infantry, cavalry and artillery would take the field at less than half their full strength. If the United States were to become involved in war with a first-class nation, a force of 2,000,000 fighting men would have to be put in the field. These statements from this authority have a direct interest for every citizen. A sample of the Congressional intelligence sometimes exhibited in dealing with important situations is shown in a question by one Solon, who asked if, in the event of war, we could wait six months to train our soldiers. General Wood assured this questioner that we could wait easily six months—if the enemy went to sleep. Such a question indicates what army men sometimes go up against.

Since the recent discovery of an error in the census of London, the population figures for New York show that it has gone to the head of the class and is now the largest city in the world. To add to its laurels, Manhattan on Tuesday literally stripped the pelt from London as the greatest fur market of the world, another legacy of the war. London has always been the center of fur sales until now, when these world auction sales are bringing many buyers to America from abroad. Today a great city is coming into its own—first in finance, first as a fur market and first in population! Old Father Knickerbocker will have to rub his spectacles to make sure he is reading these glowing reports aright. Human imagination would have been staggered a few years ago by events of the past eighteen months, not the least amazing of which would have been the foremost position that New York city has assumed as the marketplace of the world.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"I'm afraid you didn't grasp your opportunity." "Yes, I did, father, but she seemed to resent it."—Buffalo Express.

Lady—"Doctor, I am so glad to hear you have stopped calling upon poor Mrs. Smith. Now I am sure she is out of danger."—Judge.

"Why do you write articles on how cheaply people can live if they try?" "In the hope of getting enough money to avoid having to live that way."—Washington Star.

"Ever been in the army?" "Sure! I was in charge of a squad of men one time." "On special duty?" "Yes; they were taking me to the guardhouse."—Boston Transcript.

"Pa, why was I born on Christmas Day?" "It just happened so, son." "And are my presents Christmas presents or birthday presents?" "Both." "Pa, can't we get Christmas Day changed?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Yes, sir, I want to get married, and I thought you might give me an increase of salary of five dollars a week." "So that's it, eh? You want to get married." "Yes, sir." "A man who gets married these days is taking big chances. I am going to reduce your salary five dollars a week in order to keep you from making a fool of yourself. You will thank me some day."—Houston Post.

The West Pointer.

Anent the claim that it costs $20,000 to graduate a youth from West Point as against $2,500 to graduate him from Yale or Harvard, Seth Low said in New York the other day:

"If these figures are true, they indicate either laziness on the youth's part or inefficiency on the government's part. I'd incline to blame the latter rather than the former. I would never believe that to the West Pointer generally you could apply the saying:

"'You can lead an ass to knowledge, but you can't make him think.'"—New York Tribune.

The Better Way.

Charles M. Schwab, congratulated in Pittsburgh on a large war contract which he had just received from one of the warring nations, said:

"Some people call it luck, but they are mistaken. Whatever success I have is due to hard work and not to luck.

"I remember a New York business man who crossed the ocean with me one winter when the whole country was suffering from hard times.

"'And you, Mr. Schwab,' the New Yorker said, 'are, like the rest of us, I suppose, hoping for better things.'

"'No, my friend,' I replied. 'No, I am not hoping for better things. I've got my sleeves rolled up and I'm working for them.'"—Pittsburgh Post.

Be It Ever So Humble.

When war broke out in Europe a Savannah negro had been doing a bone-rattling, banjo-thumping act in one of the London music halls, and, like the Georgia negro who told Judge Latchaw in Kansas City that if released he would go so far that it would take nine dollars to send him a postal card, he wanted to get back home.

Along with a miscellaneous company of Americans he was besieging the American consulate when a southerner in the crowd, noticing him, said: "Nigger, what are you doing here?"

Wheeling with the light of discovery in his eye, Rastus replied: "Fo' God's sake, boss, 'sket dis nigger to git back to ol' Geo'gy, I'se so hungry I 'en heah de po'k chops callin'!"—Colliers

Not On Your Life.

A goodly number of the young men of Hodgetown had gladly responded to Lord Kitchener's call for men, and in honor of the occasion the old squire gave the new recruits a feast in the village schoolroom. During the proceedings one of the recruits cleared his plate of all the courses, then, standing up, he removed his serviette and unbuttoned his tunic to make room for more victuals. One of the waiters, noticing him, hurried up to him and whispered in his ear, "Dessert, sir, dessert?" "Desert!" replied Hodge. "No bloomin' fear. Not as long as I can get a good feed like this for nothing."

The Nail.

George Ade was talking at the Chicago Athletic Club about a poor but beautiful working girl who had eloped with an octogenarian banker.

"There is nothing remarkable about it, though," said Mr. Ade. "Winnie, you know, was a manicure. Well, many a manicure nails a multi-millianaire."—Chicago Record Herald.

DR ELIZABETH M. MUNCIE.

DR. MUNCIE DEFENDS MRS. SANGER; OPPOSES DELAY IN HER TRIAL.

New York, Jan. 28.—Friends of Mrs. Margaret Sanger, whose trial for disseminating literature regarding birth control, has been postponed by the Federal authorities until the February session, are loud in their protests at the delay. Many of them do not hesitate to say that in their opinion the case will never be heard.

Dr. Elizabeth Hamilton Muncie, of Brooklyn, one of the foremost women physicians of the country, said today:

"It is an absurd law that makes it a felony to disseminate knowledge that may lead to human birth control. I, for one, would urge the necessity of licensing the medical profession to aid in the prevention of births in many cases. Unless we take measures to regulate the birth of children our country will soon be overrun by degenerates.

Seventy-five per cent of the school children of the United States have defects mentally or physically.

"Ninety per cent of the school children of Chicago are defective. Of 650,000 school children of New York city 30 per cent are behind their normal grade.

"One young man out of every six in the 1914 class at a certain university is physically defective.

"Eighty-four per cent of boys accused in the criminal court of Chicago are defective, mentally. In age from fourteen to eighteen, but in mind but eight to ten years old. A large per cent of women who appear in criminal and divorce courts are children, mentally.

"In many parts of our country every fourth house shelters a defective or a degenerate."

"Gin oor colonel wis tae say that, a' the regiment wad fa' oot."

The Children's Teeth
are as important to be looked after as are the older people's—perhaps more so. Their teeth may not ache nor be decayed—they should not be allowed to get so. FARM BUREAU MAN IS NAMED.

New York Central Picks E. H. Anderson as Agricultural Agent.

Manager E. H. Anderson of the Niagara County Farm Bureau, has been appointed agricultural agent for the New York Central lines to assist Agriculturist F. S. Welsh. Mr. Anderson will give special attention to improving the market situation.

The greatest general handicap to profitable farming in this state is said to be the lack of standardization of farm products and a disorganized system of marketing and distributing those products. Consequently, Mr. Anderson's work at the outset will probably relate largely to standardization and marketing. He will be expected to collect information as to the quality of products, kind of container, and demand and other market conditions in the smaller cities, of from ten to seventy-five thousand population, and he will place that information at the disposal of those agricultural sections that can supply standardized products.

Mr. Anderson also will work with the distributing committee that was appointed by the president of the New York State Fruit Growers' Association at its recent meeting in Rochester, to bring about a more uniform distribution of its standardized packages of New York state fruit.

To Play Catskill Team.

Wednesday evening, February 2, the All Church team of Kingston will clash with the fast Y. M. C. A. team of Catskill. These two teams met a week ago, which resulted in a victory for the locals by a close margin. This game is expected to be the fastest game that has been played in the Y. M. C. A. this season, as Catskill has been somewhat strengthened since the defeat handed them by the local boys. The line-up of Kingston consists of Oughelbee, Miller and Relyea, guards, Ingham, Beckwith, forwards, Lazett, center.

Plitt Now An Investigator.

Charles B. Plitt, Jr., who figured prominently in the trial of Charles Becker, the police lieutenant who died in the electric chair at Sing Sing, will be an assistant to Frederick J. Groehl, appointed by Governor Whitman to investigate defunct banks under the Moreland act. Groehl was an assistant district attorney until last week when he resigned to accept the appointment. He resides at 601 West 149th street and Plitt at 64 West 118th street, New York.

Sixty Policemen Exercise.

Sixty members of the Albany police department were at the Y. M. C. A. in that city on Thursday and for more than an hour, under the direction of Phisical Director E. M. Cundiff, the policemen went through a varied program of physical exercises. The presence of the men in the gym was in accordance with an order issued by Commissioner Irving requesting the men to keep themselves in perfect physical condition.

Successful Opera Singer.

Miss Flora Bonesteel, who has been playing with the National Opera Company for the past six months, is spending a few weeks with her parents on Henry street. Miss Bonesteel has been touring with the company through the west and just returned from a tour through the southern states. When her visit in this city is concluded, Miss Bonesteel will again join the company at Chicago.

To Observe McKinley's Birthday.

Patriotic singing and recitations will be given and all soldiers, sons of veterans and the public are invited. Refreshments will be served.

The Exception.

BRITISH LABOR SUPPORTS WAR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bristol, Eng., Jan. 28.—British labor, as represented in the trades union conference, went on record again today as supporting the government in its conduct of the war. As a result of resolutions adopted at the morning session it was made possible for the labor party's leaders who recently resigned from the cabinet to resume their posts. They are expected to do so.

The conference adopted by a vote of 1,674,000 to 269,000 a resolution confirming the action of the legislative committee of the labor party in allowing the organization's representatives to enter the coalition government cabinet.

By a vote of 1,622,000 to 495,000 the conference then adopted a resolution providing that the representatives of the labor party should remain in the ministry. On the heels of the adoption of these resolutions an effort was made to have the conference reconsider its action in condemning the government's military service bill, but the attempt failed. It was stated, however, that the cabinet was considering modifications of the measure that would render it more acceptable to the working classes.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

Letters of administration on the estate of William Elmendorf of Port Ewen have been granted in the surrogate's court to his widow, Arena Elmendorf. Mr. Elmendorf for many years resided at West Shokan and was engaged in the peddling business between Kingston and West Shokan, and throughout the Ashokan region. He was familiarly known as "Uncle Billy," and had many friends along his route. The value of his estate is $400 personal property. Senator Charles W. Walton appeared for the administratrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Louisa Thielmann of the town of Rosendale were issued to his son, Charles Thielmann. The value of the real estate is $1,500 and the personal property amounts to $250. Frederick Stephan, Jr., appeared for the administrator.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of Irene J. Stevens as administratrix of the estate of Alanson Stevens of the town of New Paltz and a decree was granted. Joseph H. Vanderlyn appeared for the administratrix.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the account of Elizabeth Meyer Schaefer as executrix of the estate of Margaret Blume of this city and a decree was granted. Newton H. Fessenden appeared for the executrix.

The last will and testament of William Wolven was admitted to probate by Surrogate Gill on Thursday. It was dated April 1, 1913, and devises and bequeaths all of his real and personal property to his sister, Ella Wolven England. The value of the real estate exceeds $5,000, and the value of the personal property exceeds $10,000. Mrs. England is appointed executrix; Judge Clearwater is her counsel.

Song That Attracted Stella.

Five-year-old Stella was fond of going to Sunday school and she liked especially the singing. "Did they sing any pretty songs at Sunday school?" asked grandma of the little upon her return home. INTEREST IN WAR SHIFTING TO SCANDINAVIAN COUNTRIES.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Recent embargoes imposed by Denmark and Sweden, particularly on exports to Germany, are interpreted here by a high administration official as meaning that the Scandinavian countries have entered upon "a policy of preparation" out of fear that they may be plunged into the European war at any time.

This view, which is taken by other students of European affairs in close touch with the trend of recent developments, is regarded as confirmatory of reports from private sources that Sweden and Denmark are verging on an outbreak, and that Norway will join them if they go into the conflict. It supports the belief of lesser officials that the Scandinavian countries realize there is imminent danger of their becoming involved actively in the European conflict.

FURIOUS STORM ON PACIFIC COAST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Jan. 28.—The violent storm which has been whipping the Pacific coast and the interior mountain region for several days continued today with unabated fury in some sections and diminished in others. Great property damage has been inflicted but there has been little or no loss of life as far as known.

San Francisco was cut off entirely today from wire communication with the southern part of the state.

Shipping in San Pedro harbor, the port of Los Angeles, was paralyzed.

Thousands of dollars damage has been done in the San Joaquin valley.

The city of Fresno was in darkness.

San Diego was isolated.

San Diego was isolated for the third time in two weeks but the extent of the damage was not known. The wind unroofed buildings and uprooted trees and thousands of acres of lowlands near that city have been flooded.

The loss in the oil fields about Coalinga is estimated at $1,500,000.

Railroad traffic over the mountains in the vicinity of Truckee, Nevada, has been suspended until the blizzard abates.

Snow fell in Sacramento for the first time in history.

First Iron Skates.

Skating does not appear always to have been as common an accomplishment as it is nowadays. Iron skates seem to have been introduced by the Dutch, but the art itself was known in London at an early period. The monk, Fitzstephen, who was secretary to Archbishop Becket, describes the bone skates used by Londoners in the twelfth century. But Pepys, writing in 1662, has a reference. "Over the parke," he says, "where I first in my life, it being a great frost, did see people sliding with their skeates, which is a very pretty art." From which it is reasonable to infer that skating was not as general then as later or Mr. Pepys would not have missed it.

The Grand Teton.

The view of the Teton peaks from Ashton, Ida., is superb and doubtless has been the inducement for many a tourist and sportsman to leave the main line for the Teton range and the Jackson Hole country in pursuit of elk, sheep, trout and unsurpassed mountain scenery. Owen Wister's "Virginian" was glad to get out of these mountains because, as he explained, "they're most too big."

The average American, who has only a vague conception of the natural beauties of the Rocky mountains and imagines that real alpine forms are found only in Switzerland, must be surprised when he first sees the lofty peaks of the Tetons. Even a man who has climbed the Matterhorn would think twice before daring to try Grand Teton. According to local report, this peak has been ascended only twice, in 1872 and 1894. As the snowclad mountains along the Alaskan archipelago, rising to cloud reaching heights, stand with their feet bathed in the ocean, so from a viewpoint near Ashton the Tetons, towering to the sky, rise from the billowy surface of a sea of golden grain.—Geological Survey Bulletin.

Howard and Prison Fever.

Typhus, which under the name of "prison fever" was once rampant in England, held no terrors for John Howard, the prison reformer. While in a cell he would hold to his nose a vial of aromatic vinegar and on going home would wash and change his clothes, though even these precautions he later abandoned. People thought his powers bordered on the magical, pressed him for his secret and refused to believe his explanations that his immunity was due to fearlessness, cleanliness and temperance. He ate no flesh and very little of anything; he drank neither wine nor spirits and went to bed early and rose early. And his asceticism enabled him to let light into the most noisome dungeons and to live to the age of sixty-four.—London Graphic.

BRAVES' FIRST SACKER READY TO RETIRE.

Reports from Baltimore indicate that Charles Schmidt, first baseman for the Boston Nationals for the past two years, will retire from the game and devote his time to his business interests in that city.

It is said that the officials of the Braves were not surprised at the reports of Schmidt's retirement, as he had indicated such intentions last fall. Schmidt is under contract to the Braves for another year.

Seldom is knowledge given to keep, but to impart. The grace of this jewel is lost in concealment.

Don't Eat Plaster of Paris

Most important of all the wealth that comes from the earth are the vast "bread mines" of the West, where the wheat roots dig wealth from the soil and, by a miracle which no human mind can understand, convert it into the solid spheres of grain from which is made. It is of the utmost importance to humanity that bread should be free from such adulterants as Plaster of Paris and alum, used in a certain brand of bread sold here to save on yeast and make the loaves look larger. Does YOUR grocer sell it? Shun the impure and INSIST ON GETTING TEICHLER'S BREAD!

TREE-PLANTING A STATE-WIDE NEED

That Ulster county has thirty per cent of its area in waste land which could produce valuable timber, regulate stream flow and incidentally conserve the soil and moisture was the broad statement made by Prof. R. T. Gheen, of the State College of Forestry, Syracuse University, in a talk before agriculture students at the high school on "Timber and its Uses." Introduced by R. J. Service, director of manual training, Prof. Gheen spoke most interestingly upon the rapidly diminishing timber supply in this country, citing New York state as the greatest consumer. This state now ranks 23d as a wood-producer as against ten years ago, when it was in eighth place.

In his opening remarks, Prof. Gheen stated that the people of the United States were using their timber three times as fast as it is being produced and that for every five feet of timber used per capita in the state of New York each year one board foot was produced within the state. In Germany where they practice forest conservation, for every five board feet which are produced per capita, one board foot is used because Germany once faced a timber famine and forestry "arrived" there 300 years ago. Forestry on similar scientific lines was introduced in New York within the last twenty years.

Douglas Fir is Popular.

"One-third of the total stand of timber in the United States," said Professor Gheen, "is in the two states of Washington and Oregon. There are from 250 to 300 railroads in Washington which do nothing but transport logs from the woods to the mill. One of the principal trees found in the west which is being used in the east more and more although introduced here only during the last five years is the Douglas fir, known on the market as Oregon pine or red fir, or yellow fir. The red and yellow fir are produced in the same tree and are the same form of tree growth, being merely two different forms of the wood. This wood is used by telephone companies in the manufacture of cross-arms for stringing wires, being the wood most in demand for this purpose, as well as in the manufacture of silos and general building purposes."

White Pine Most Useful.

Tree life on this continent is divided into two broad classes, coniferous and deciduous trees, which were described by the speaker in detail with their principal characteristics and uses as merchantable timber. White pine and red spruce, he said, were the two important conifers in this state, the former being the most valuable of all soft woods and having a wide variety of uses. It is also a good tree for reforestation purposes where it is not attacked by the white pine weevil, which injures the terminal bud and stunts tree growth.

Red spruce, another valuable wood, is used chiefly in the production of paper, which industry uses a million cords a year of this wood. To make the caps for the milk bottles used in one day in New York city, six cords of red spruce are required, which gives an idea of the extent this material is used in paper making.

"Shortening" Of Wood Product.

House-keepers interested in the statistics on milk bottle caps will also be glad to know of the progress made in the conservation of waste which is now ground up into wood pulp for paper and is also used he said, in the making of "Kream Krisp," a substitute for lard. Other byproducts made from the waste of one mill are underground conduit fibre and furniture. Of every tree cut in the American forest only 40 per cent is utilized according to Prof. Gheen and the problem of conserving the 60 per cent waste is up to the chemists of the future.

Hemlock, one of the principal coniferous trees, for coniferous trees used for construction purposes has soared in price to $25 or $30 a thousand while white pine has gone to $60 and $80 a thousand feet. Clear white pine is one of the scarcest of lumbers.

Birch's Deceiving Uses.

Of the hard woods in the state, chief are the yellow birch, the maple and the beech, these woods having been considered of little value 15 years ago. Maple, susceptible of high polish, is used for flooring and furniture, shoe lasts and professional instruments. Birch figures in imitation mahogany and so good is the substitute that even the speaker was nearly deceived in a bed that he purchased as a mahogany four-poster. He did not touch upon the uses of birch in the cause of education.

Beech is a flooring wood and rough lumber while ash is the material for baseball bats, the material for the big league classics coming largely from neighboring Sullivan county. Hickory also goes into bats but this wood is chiefly used in the making of hammer handles. Originally the local supply at Norwich was sufficient for the Maydole factories there, said the speaker, but today Arkansas and the Middle West supply this wood.

Another valuable local wood is the tulip tree which figures as a substitute for white pine.

Fast Growing Trees Best.

Professor Gheen referred to the pines of the west and southwest and the four species of southern pine which furnish one-third of all the lumber used in the United States.

"For the reforestation of the state of New York," said Prof. Gheen, "we recommend fast-growing species of pine and spruce, something which will be of commercial value in comparatively short time. White pine and red pine are adapted to higher elevations such as the Catskills afford and the spruce to the land which has more moisture."

Methods of reforestation were interestingly described, the trees being planted six feet apart, giving each tree 36 square feet or 1,200 trees to the acre. The State Conservation Commission at Albany will supply these trees at cost of production from $2 to $4 per thousand. Two men should put in 1,000 trees a day and the point was made that this would be a good field for effort on the part of high school students to substitute scientific reforestation programs on a small scale for Arbor Day programs. Jamestown and New Berlin are working out most beautiful and educational park systems by this method.

New York to Lead Country.

The chestnut blight, introduced from Japan 20 years ago, was touched upon by the speaker who advocated the cutting out of the infected trees and branches in fall or winter or early spring. In this way the remaining trees can be saved as it is the belief of experts that the blight has about run its course.

"Today the timber supply in this country is fast diminishing," said Prof. Gheen in conclusion, "While we have heavy stands in the west these are inaccessible in a large measure and New York State, with its superior transportation facilities, must take the lead as a forest state because of its vast areas of waste land which are suitable for the production of forest trees only."

Professor Gheen's lecture was very well received and at its conclusion he gave some data with regard to planting of trees on the school grounds. On his next visit here the professor will accompany the class in agriculture on a walk in the mountains for a study of tree life in this vicinity. Professor Gheen speaks in Hurley Saturday night and Farm Bureau Manager W. H. Hook will be in attendance at the meeting which is under the auspices of the Grange.

Mr. Malcolm has had a stroke of paralysis about a year ago and is quite feeble. The above is mentioned because there are still some who will remember Augustus Malcolm, as he was born on the old Malcolm farm, west of Milton, and when a young man went west, where he and his wife, Mary Ann Townsend, formed what is known as the pioneer home of the Malcolm family of Iowa. There were eight children born to Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm, all of whom are still living, but one, the youngest, litle Ferris, who died at he age of four years. Although these children have married and have homes in various places in that state, the pioneer farm home, with the little log cabin, is still kept in the family.

FLOWER-STUDDED ARMLET OR ANKLET, SOCIETY'S NEW FAD.

New York, Jan. 28.—The latest feminine craze is so effective, yet simple and inexpensive an addition to the evening toilet that it is being universally adopted.

It consists simply of a band of ferns set off with a red rose, or if desired, the wearer's favorite flower.

This decorative flower jewelry is worn about the curve of the upper arm which is left uncovered in all its natural beauty.

Just imagine a perfectly formed arm. Then leave this arm entirely undraped from shoulder to finger tip. About the cosy curve of the upper arm, against the whiteness of the skin, twine a small bit of feathery fern. Then use this natural armlet to hold in place a red, yes, a deep red, rose bud!

The effect is striking. The very simplicity of the idea gives it instant attention. During the past few days a number of prominent young women have appeared with simple flower ornaments.

Nor is the flower ornament confined to the better display of an attractive arm. Some of the more artistic have managed to find a way to call attention to a superior attraction by the same method. A woman whose pride is a dainty foot and ankle deftly hangs her green band and rose setting about the ankle.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 28, 1916.

The chief characteristic of President Wilson's speeches heretofore has been their lack of living interest. They have read like the attempts of a schoolmaster to instruct his pupils in rhetoric without regard to the subject matter of the compositions. This criticism cannot be made of the three speeches he has just delivered in New York. In them he frankly admits that he was wrong last year when he told Congress that preparedness was not a pressing issue, and that he is no longer too proud to fight. This is encouraging, since the impression had become pretty general that Mr Wilson believed that all knowledge was centered in him and that he could not be wrong in any of his opinions. There is always hope for a man when he discovers that he is fallible. Perhaps the most important thing the President said Thursday night was this:

I cannot tell you what the international relations of this country will be tomorrow; and I use the word literally. And I would not dare keep silent and let the country suppose that tomorrow was certain to be as bright as today.

Coming from our Chief Executive, this statement means more than if it emanated from an ordinary source. He would not use such language unless the possibility existed of our being dragged into the war. His knowledge of the situation must of necessity be more complete than that possessed by any newspaper—and still less by any individual. In the face of such a prospect, the man who preaches opposition to preparedness is morally, if not legally, a traitor to his country.

Although he mentioned no name, President Wilson's speech at the Biltmore quite obviously referred to Bryan when he mentioned the fact that "there are some humbugs that have been at large a long time," and when he added the observation that "the best way to silence any friend of yours whom you know to be a fool is to induce him to hire a hall." This is sure to elicit a response from Peace-at-Any-Price Bill. The latter is what is aptly called in the common speech a "smart fool." There are many such in every community. They are unable to grasp any important fact or idea, but they have a gift of gab which is quite impressive to individuals who are equally with themselves unable to think straight. After a while these humbugs are frequently found out, although many of them survive indefinitely in the esteem of a considerable portion of the public. Bryan is one of these. There is reason to believe that he still exerts a powerful influence in a large section of the West. If he uses this strength to thwart President Wilson's political ambitions, no harm will be done, but if he is able to block the plan of preparedness he will find himself reduced to the state of unimportance in which he should always have remained.

Whether or not your boy is raised to be a soldier, training for six months will make him one if he's worth having for one. That is what Major-General Leonard Wood, Commander of the Department of the East, told the House Military Committee at yesterday's hearing. General Wood's sensible system to meet the demands for a standing army of 220,000 men calls for a new form of enlistment, including a maximum term of two years. He would make the enlistment terms as attractive as possible to attract a higher grade of men to the army. Today, if ordered into Mexico, our infantry, cavalry and artillery would take the field at less than half their full strength. If the United States were to become involved in war with a first-class nation, a force of 2,000,000 fighting men would have to be put in the field. These statements from this authority have a direct interest for every citizen. A sample of the Congressional intelligence sometimes exhibited in dealing with important situations is shown in a question by one Solon, who asked if, in the event of war, we could wait six months to train our soldiers. General Wood assured this questioner that we could wait easily six months—if the enemy went to sleep. Such a question indicates what army men sometimes go up against.

Since the recent discovery of an error in the census of London, the population figures for New York show that it has gone to the head of the class and is now the largest city in the world. To add to its laurels, Manhattan on Tuesday literally stripped the pelt from London as the greatest fur market of the world, another legacy of the war. London has always been the center of fur sales until now, when these world auction sales are bringing many buyers to America from abroad. Today a great city is coming into its own—first in finance, first as a fur market and first in population. Old Father Knickerbocker will have to rub his spectacles to make sure he is reading these glowing reports aright. Human imagination would have been staggered a few years ago by events of the past eighteen months, not the least amazing of which would have been the foremost position that New York city has assumed as the marketplace of the world.

"Ever been in the army?" "Sure! I was in charge of a squad of men one time." "On special duty?" "Yes; they were taking me to the guardhouse."—Boston Transcript.

"Pa, why was I born on Christmas Day?" "It just happened so, son." "And are my presents Christmas presents or birthday presents?" "Both." "Pa, can't we get Christmas Day changed?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Yes, sir, I want to get married, and I thought you might give me an increase of salary of five dollars a week." "So that's it, eh? You want to get married?" "Yes, sir." "A man who gets married these days is taking big chances. I am going to reduce your salary five dollars a week in order to keep you from making a fool of yourself. You will thank me some day."—Houston Post.

The West Pointer.

Anent the claim that it costs $20,000 to graduate a youth from West Point as against $2,500 to graduate him from Yale or Harvard, Seth Low said in New York the other day:

"If these figures are true, they indicate either laziness on the youth's part or inefficiency on the government's part. I'd incline to blame the latter rather than the former. I would never believe that to the West Pointer generally you could apply the saying:

"'You can lead an ass to knowledge, but you can't make him think.'"—New York Tribune.

The Better Way.

Charles M. Schwab, congratulated in Pittsburgh on a large war contract which he had just received from one of the warring nations, said:

"Some people call it luck, but they are mistaken. Whatever success I have is due to hard work and not to luck.

"I remember a New York business man who crossed the ocean with me one winter when the whole country was suffering from hard times.

"'And you, Mr. Schwab,' the New Yorker said, 'are, like the rest of us, I suppose, hoping for better things.'

"'No, my friend,' I replied. 'No, I am not hoping for better things. I've got my sleeves rolled up and I'm working for them.'"—Pittsburgh Post.

Be It Ever So Humble.

When war broke out in Europe a Savannah negro had been doing a bone-rattling, banjo-thumping act in one of the London music halls, and, like the Georgia negro who told Judge Latchaw in Kansas City that if released he would go so far that it would take nine dollars to send him a postal card, he wanted to get back home.

Along with a miscellaneous company of Americans he was besieging the American consulate when a southerner in the crowd, noticing him, said: "Nigger, what are you doing here?"

Wheeling with the light of discovery in his eye, Rastus replied: "Fo' God's sake, boss, 'sist dis nigger to git back to ol' Geo'gy, I'se so hungry I 'en heah de po'k chops callin'!"—Collier's.

Not On Your Life.

A goodly number of the young men of Hodgetown had gladly responded to Lord Kitchener's call for men, and in honor of the occasion the old squire gave the new recruits a feast in the village schoolroom. During the proceedings one of the recruits cleared his plate of all the courses, then, standing up, he removed his serviette and unbuttoned his tunic to make room for more victuals. One of the waiters, noticing him, hurried up to him and whispered in his ear, "Dessert, sir, dessert?" "Desert!" replied Hodge. "No bloomin' fear. Not as long as I can get a good feed like this for nothing."

The Nail.

George Ade was talking at the Chicago Athletic Club about a poor but beautiful working girl who had eloped with an octogenarian banker.

"There is nothing remarkable about it, though," said Mr. Ade. "Winnie, you know, was a manicure. Well, many a manicure nails a multi-millianaire."—Chicago Record Herald.

SOUTH RONDOUT.

South Rondout, Jan. 28.—The C. E. meeting on Sunday evening was led by Katherine Cole.

Considering that so many of our people are ill the church services on Sunday were well attended. Our pastor gave us two excellent sermons. At the morning service Mrs Boyce, Miss Mildred Olsen and Mr. Phillips sang, "Hear Our Prayer," and in the evening the choir sang, "Let Us Give Thanks," by Butterfield.

On Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the pastor would be pleased to have any one that is interested in Bible reading to attend these meetings at the church.

John Bigler is ill with the grip.

DR ELIZABETH H MUNCIE

DR. MUNCIE DEFENDS MRS. SANGER; OPPOSES DELAY IN HER TRIAL.

New York, Jan. 28.—Friends of Mrs Margaret Sanger, whose trial for disseminating literature regarding birth control, has been postponed by the Federal authorities until the February session, are loud in their protests at the delay. Many of them do not hesitate to say that in their opinion the case will never be heard.

Dr. Elizabeth Hamilton Muncie, of Brooklyn, one of the foremost women physicians of the country, said today:

"It is an absurd law that makes it a felony to disseminate knowledge that may lead to human birth control. I, for one, would urge the necessity of licensing the medical profession to aid in the prevention of births in many cases. Unless we take measures to regulate the birth of children our country will soon be overrun by degenerates.

Seventy-five per cent of the school children of the United States have defects mentally or physically.

"Ninety per cent of the school children of Chicago are defective. Of 650,000 school children of New York city 30 per cent are behind their normal grade.

"One young man out of every six in the 1914 class at a certain university is physically defective.

"Eighty-four per cent of boys accused in the criminal court of Chicago are defective, mentally. In age from fourteen to eighteen, but in mind but eight to ten years old. A large per cent of women who appear in criminal and divorce courts are children, mentally.

Insurance Agents Authorized.

George T. Brackley and James E. Kiersted have been authorized by the superintendent of insurance at Albany to act as agents for the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. Brackley is to be agent at Kerhonkson and Kiersted at Kingston.

Score One for Sandy.

Pat and Sandy were discussing the merits of their respective regiments, and each one was of the opinion that his own was the best. "Why," said Pat, "whin our colonel is dismissin' us he says to the officers, 'Fall out, gintlemen.'" "That disna coont for muckle," replied Sandy. "Gin oor colonel wis tae say that, a' the regiment wad fa' oot.

Best Way to Wash Marble.

When washing marble washstands and mantel shelves, never use soap, as it spoils the polished surface. A little ammonia added to the water is all that is required.

Don't forget the date, and be sure and go to hear it.

This lodge used to have receptions that the members and families greatly enjoyed, but of late the interest seems to have died, and they have taken a back seat, as it were. Get busy, get a program up, committees appointed, and have a fine reception once again, and all catch the contagion of sociability, for there are plenty who would help you.

Miss Anna Kilcawley of Highland Mills was in town last Sunday. She is attending school at the Normal at New Paltz.

Mr. Cluett of Poughkeepsie, father of Mrs. Philip Schantz, died Saturday, January 22, after a long illness. The funeral was held from his late home Tuesday, January 25. He had resided in Poughkepsie for years and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. Friends from here extend heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Philip Schantz in this, her hour of great bereavement.

Miss Rowena Harcourt was the hostess last Saturday afternoon to members of the U. D. Society. At this meeting discussions took place in regard to a chicken pie supper, which was to have been held February 11, for library, and on account of the vast amount of sickness among the people in the community it was decided to call off the affair until later, when it is hoped that good health may take the place of sickness, which is so prevalent here at present.

Harry Maynard, who left last Sunday for Miama, Florida, sent word here that Tuesday he was in Jacksonville and before ... s goes to print he will be at his destination. He will just enjoy the south while we later on, perhaps, will have some cold weather to pay up for this January thaw. If the grip would only let go its grip and never again show up, the people would go in raptures over it, we think, for nearly every one has had it or are getting over it, or in other words, catching it.

BRITISH PONTOON BRIDGE AT KUT-EL-AMARA (©INTL. FILM SERVICE)

BRITISH PONTOON BRIDGE AT KUT-EL-ALAMARA, BESIEGED BY TURKS.

One of the big features of the war during the past two months has been the Turkish siege of the British garrison at Kut-el-Amara, in Mesopotamia. The force sent to the aid of the besieged garrison has met with extremely heavy losses, according to late reports.

This picture was made just before the Turks laid siege to the post and was brought out with one of the last men to leave. It shows a pontoon bridge at Kut-el-Amara, with the "draw" open to allow the passage of a military launch.

CRACK ARMY ATHLETE

Oliphant Is Only Cadet to Win "A" in Four Sports.

Won Letters and Numerals Galore While at Purdue University—Life-Size Pictures of Indiana Lad In Hall of Fame.

If Cadet Elmer Quillen Oliphant, the dashing halfback of the Army eleven last fall, gains promotion and fame in the Army after his graduation from West Point two and a half years hence as rapidly as he has attained rank and prominence in athletic pursuits, he will be the recipient of words of commendation and the like from the very start of his career as a soldier.

Cadet Oliphant is one of the best athletes that ever entered the Military academy. In fact, he is the only cadet who ever won the coveted "A" in four sports since the beginning of athletic competition at the Point, 25 years ago.

No West Point man has ever been graduated with the "A" won in more than three branches of sport at the academy. There are upward of 400 "A" men among the alumni of West Point, too, and most of these men were the entire four years accumulating their "A's." Oliphant has been there since June, 1914.

Oliphant is a son of Marion E. Oliphant of Bruceville, Ind. He was born at Bloomfield, that state, twenty-two years ago. He was a leader in athletics among the boys of his town at an early age, and attended the Washington (Ind.) High school for three years. He left Washington and went to the Linton (Ind.) High school, from which institution he was graduated in 1910, and went to Purdue university at Lafayette. At Purdue he is classed as the greatest athlete who ever graced that university with his presence. He won letters and numerals galore, and life-size pictures of this Indiana lad hang in Purdue's athletic hall of fame, showing him dressed in various athletic costumes.

Elmer Q. Oliphant of West Point.

TO UPHOLD HONOR OF COAST

At Least Twenty Athletes to Take Part in National Championships at Newark, N. J.

When the track and field athletes from all parts of the United States strip for the national championship at Newark next summer, the Pacific coast will be represented by the largest aggregation that ever went out to uphold the honor of that part of the United States.

Plans are being laid far in advance by the men of athletic affairs on the coast for the raising of a large fund to finance a team of not less than twenty men for the Newark games. The Olympic club of San Francisco, the Multnomah Amateur Athletic association of Portland, the Seattle Athletic club and the Los Angeles Athletic club will take the lead in the work of organizing an all-Pacific coast team.

It is expected each of these organizations will contribute funds to be added to the money that will be allowed the Pacific coast by the championship committee for the transportation of the team. Added to these funds will be the profits of the Pacific coast national championship tryouts, which will be run on a large scale in one of the coast cities.

The victory of the Olympic club in the 1915 national championships at the Panama-Pacific exposition has brought about a fine, healthy boom in track sports on the coast, and the natural result is a desire to maintain the prestige won at the Frisco meet in the championships at Newark in 1916.

Atlantic Coast Bowling Tourney.

Washington, D. C., has organized a stock company to finance the tournament company which will hold the second annual tourney of the Atlantic Coast Bowling association, the eastern governing body which includes small ball as well as the large style of bowling among its championship events. The tourney will be held next April, and it is estimated the cost will be about $8,000.

THE WHIP IN RIFLE BARRELS.

It Is Caused by the Pressure of Modern High Power Powder.

The use of high power powder in rifles has given rise to a phenomenon which did not exist in black powder days. This is known as "whip" and is due to the pressure and vibration set up by the powder. It is constant with given loads and is always in the same direction.

Sights are aligned by the manufacturer to compensate for this whip in proportion to the powder charge used. In firing auxiliary cartridges it will often be found that the rifle shoots off center. As a matter of fact the bullet from the auxiliary is traveling in a true line with the bore, and it is the sights that are wrong. The lighter charge of the auxiliary does not produce the usual whip, with the result that the line in prolongation of the bore of the rifle along which the bullet travels is not the line given by the alignment of the sights.

Two other rifle terms that must not be confused are upsettage and keyholing. Keyholing is the tendency of the bullet to turn over in flight, while upsettage is the slight shortening of the major axis of the bullet due to the force of the charge. It was peculiar to black powder fired behind lead bullets and does not exist to any appreciable extent in metal jacketed bullets with smokeless powder. In the latter case the charge burns more slowly and the jacket stiffens the bullet against the sudden blow from behind.—Outing.

ORIGIN OF THE PERISCOPE.

The Reflecting Spyglass Used at the Siege of Sebastopol.

Speaking of the origin of the periscope, the following extract from the writings of the well known inventor of "Pepper's Ghost" gives the credit to the clerical profession. Pepper wrote soon after the Crimean war:

"During the siege of Sebastopol numbers of our best artillerymen were continually picked off by the enemy's rifles as well as by cannon shot, and in order to put a stop to the foolhardiness and incautiousness of the men, a very ingenious contrivance was invented by the Rev. William Taylor, the coadjutor of Mr. Denison in constructing the first 'Big Ben' bell. It was called the reflecting spyglass, and by its simple construction rendered the exposure of the sailors and soldiers who would look over the parapet or other parts of the works to observe the effect of their shots perfectly unnecessary, while another form was constructed for the purpose of allowing the gunner to 'lay' or aim his gun in safety.

"The instruments were shown to Lord Panmure, who was so convinced of the importance of the invention that he immediately commissioned the Rev. William Taylor to have a number of these telescopes constructed, and if the siege had not terminated just at the time the invention was to have been used no doubt a great saving of the valuable lives of the skilled artillerymen would have been effected."—London Express.

Gam's Dry Humor.

When the gallant Welsh captain, David Gam, was sent forward by Henry V. to reconnoiter the French army before the battle of Agincourt he found that the enemy outnumbered the English by about five to one. His report to the king is historic:

"There are enough to be killed, enough to be taken prisoners and enough to run away."

This quaint forecast of the result of the battle at once spread through the camp, and doubtless every yeoman archer of the valiant company felt an inch taller. We know that it was almost literally justified by the event. Poor Gam's dry humor was equaled by his courage. He was killed while in the act of saving the life of his prince.—London Standard.

Distilled Water.

Distilled water after having been exposed to the air is one of the most salubrious of drinks. Its daily use in measured quantities is helpful in cases of dyspepsia and greatly assists the general functions of the body. Every large steamer carries a water distilling apparatus by which sea water is made fresh. In the days before steamers primitive distilling apparatus was used on warships and vessels carrying passengers.

Well Fitted.

"Yes, grandma; I am to be married next month."

"But, my dear," said grandma earnestly, "you are very young. Do you feel that you are fitted for married life?"

"I am being fitted now, grandma," explained the prospective bride sweetly. "Seven gowns!"—Kansas City Journal.

More Than the Average.

Mrs. Wayup—How much sleep do I need, doctor? Doctor—Well, the average person needs about seven hours. Mrs. Wayup—Then I shall take about fourteen. I consider I am much above the average.—Judge.

Combinations of taffeta and serge are shown in many of the smartest spring models.. Here a combination of tan pussy willow and garbardine is used, the taffeta predominating. The deep fold in the skirt and a narrower fold outlines the snort smart jacket. A touch of colored embroidery on the collar lends a charming, contrasting note.

FARM BUREAU MAN IS NAMED.

New York Central Picks E. H. Anderson as Agricultural Agent.

Manager E. H. Anderson of the Niagara County Farm Bureau, has been appointed agricultural agent for the New York Central lines to assist Agriculturist F. S. Welsh. Mr. Anderson will give special attention to improving the market situation.

The greatest general handicap to profitable farming in this state is said to be the lack of standardization of farm products and a disorganized system of marketing and distributing those products. Consequently, Mr. Anderson's work at the outset will probably relate largely to standardization and marketing. He will be expected to collect information as to the quality of products, kind of container, and demand and other market conditions in the smaller cities, of from ten to seventy-five thousand population, and he will place that information at the disposal of those agricultural sections that can supply standardized products.

Mr. Anderson also will work with the distributing committee that was appointed by the president of the New York State Fruit Growers Association at its recent meeting in Rochester, to bring about a more uniform distribution of its standardized packages of New York state fruit.

To Play Catskill Team.

Wednesday evening, February 2, the All Church team of Kingston will clash with the fast Y. M. C. A. team of Catskill. These two teams met a week ago, which resulted in a victory for the locals by a close margin. This game is expected to be the fastest game that has been played in the Y. M. C. A. this season, as Catskill has been somewhat strengthened since the defeat handed them by the local boys. The lineup of Kingston consists of Oughelee, Miller and Relyea, guards, Wm. Beckwith, forwards, Lazett, center.

Plitt Now An Investigator.

Charles B. Plitt, Jr., who figured prominently in the trial of Charles Becker, the police lieutenant who died in the electric chair at Sing Sing, will be an assistant to Frederick J. Groehl, appointed by Governor Whitman to investigate defunct banks under the Moreland act. Groehl was an assistant district attorney until last week when he resigned to accept the appointment. He resides at 601 West 149th street and Plitt at 64 West 118th street, New York.

Sixty Policemen Exercise.

Sixty members of the Albany police department were at the Y. M. C. A. in that city on Thursday and for more than an hour, under the direction of Phisical Director E. M. Conley, the policemen went through a varied program of physical exercises. The presence of the men in the gym was in accordance with an order issued by Commissioner Irving requesting the men to keep themselves in perfect physical condition.

Successful Opera Singer.

Miss Flora Bonesteel, who has been playing with the National Opera Company for the past six months, is spending a few weeks with her parents on Henry street. Miss Bonesteel has been touring with the company through the west and just returned from a tour through the southern states. When her visit in this city is concluded, Miss Bonesteel will again join the company at Chicago.

To Observe McKinley's Birthday.

McKinley's birthday will be observed by the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 20, Sons of Veterans, at the residence of Patriotic Instructor, Sister Sarah Rose, No. 25 Clinton avenue, on Saturday evening, January 29. Patriotic singing and recitations will be given and all soldiers, sons of veterans and the public are invited. Refreshments will be served.

The Exception.

"I never buy anything without seeing it," I do. I paid the Electric Light company for a bunch of kilowatts this morning, and I've never laid eyes on one of them."

SUBURBAN NEWS.

Whiteport.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ellen Driscoll, when her daughter, Mary, was united in marriage to Andrew J. Oulton of Kingston by the Rev. Father Duffy of Rosendale. The bride was attired in a blue velvet traveling suit with hat to match. She carried a large bouquet of sweet peas, while Miss Katherine Driscol, a sister, who acted as bridesmaid, was dressed in a brown velvet suit and white hat, also carrying a bouquet of sweet peas. The groom wore a black suit and his brother, Thomas Oulton, acted as best man. After the ceremony a dinner was served in the Knights of Labor Hall, it being decorated for the purpose with smilax, carnations and roses. About 75 guests from Kingston, New York, Jersey City, Albany and Schenectady were present. The couple received many presents, among them being cut glass, silver and a check. The bride and groom left town amid the good wishes of all present, a shower of rice, old shoes and cornstalks for a honeymoon trip, embracing Buffalo and Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside in Kingston, where a furnished home awaits them. Their large circle of friends wish them all the success and luck attending their married life.

Mrs. James H. Coons of Tillson called on her daughter, Mrs. O. J. Wheeler, one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Olando J. Wheeler and children have all been sick with the grip, but are better at this writing.

Mrs. Frank Kallop is very sick with the grip. Dr. Rymph is the attending doctor.

Miss Mary Ten Hagen of Rosendale spent Sunday with Miss Grace Yonker.

Mrs. James Crawford called on Mrs. J. Clearwater on Sunday afternoon.

Those who called on our genial friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Blanshan, Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Wheeler and Fred Kallop.

Our men were glad to get a few day's work helping to gather ice on the fifth lake at Binnewater.

We are all glad to see the smiling face of our Kingston baker, Fred Sahloff, with his little Ford.

Another's Lot.

The other girl's lot is pretty sure to seem preferable to yours, is it not? Its charms shine with a brighter luster, the drawbacks shrink into insignificance, as we regard it. Yet nine out of ten of the people who envy their neighbors would be rendered unhappy by an exchange. The halo which surrounds another's lot would vanish if it became ours.

Tactless.

"I don't think it was a bit nice for the rector to commend women's economy in dress," said the wife to her husband after the service.

"That shouldn't have annoyed you, my dear," was the reply. "Your gown is plain enough."

"Exactly! His remark called everybody's attention to what I had on."—Exchange.

The Trouble.

"Have you explained the germ system to your children? Everything should be on a practical basis these days."

"No," replied the old fashioned citizen. "It seems inconsistent to tell 'em not to believe in fairies and then try to get 'em to believe in microbes."—Pittsburgh Post.

Very Little Difference.

Second Childhood—When younger friends of the family condescendingly ask you how old you are.—Judge.

John Brown's Compass.

A compass, once the property of John Brown, which played a part in early history, is in the museum of the Kansas State Historical society in Topeka. John Brown used the instrument when he was living in Osawatomie, in the years between 1855 and 1858. During the Missouri-Kansas border warfare in those days, the story goes, the abolitionist leader used the compass in a pretence of surveying land, when in reality he was locating and mapping the camps of proslavery men.—Kansas City Journal.

Helping Him Along.

"I want to get up, doctor," said the patient in the hospital.

"But your heart is weak," replied the medical man.

"Oh, the pretty nurse is going to give me hers."—Yonkers Statesman.

Sawed-Off Sermon.

One should make allowance for youthful follies. The cat, the gravest of all animals, is the most frisky when young.—Indianapolis Star.

The Ruling Passion.

It is related of a certain German savant, to show how strong the ruling passion is in death, that as he was dying he exclaimed in French, in which language he was deeply learned, "Je meurs" (I die). Pretty soon he opened his eyes before passing away and added, "Man kann auch sagen, Je me meurs!" (One can also in French use the reflexive form of the verb "to die.") His last flicker of interest was in the word more than in the fact of death.

True to Life.

"First really realistic novel I ever read."

"What's so realistic about it?"

"Didn't you notice? The heroine does about six times as much talking as the hero."—Exchange.

Soliciting Insurance.

The Solicitor—We pay you if you die, if you are hurt, if you get sick. The Victim—How much if I get sick of paying the premium?—Albany Argus.

The Poet Again.

He had long hair and a pensive look. He wrote a poem entitled "Why Do I Live?" He signed it Augustus and sent it to a magazine.

The editor wrote him as follows: "My dear Augustus—The reason why you live is because you sent the poem by mail instead of bringing it personally."—Paris Journal.

Her Compensation.

Her Ladyship—You are a disgrace to your title—barred from decent society and expelled from all your clubs for crooked gambling and dissipation—and, though I am from common stock, I've paid all your debts and kept you in luxury. I'd like to know what I've had out of our marriage. Lord Blacksheep—Dash it all, woman, haven't I made you my equal?—Exchange.

In a Bad Way.

"Is he hard up?"

"I should say so. He can't even get credit for his good intentions."—Judge.

In Hard Luck

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Had you asked in the village of Lorain which was the happiest family in the community nine out of ten would have answered that Deacon Thurston and his wife filled the bill.

The deacon had never been known to get mad or to do a selfish action. His wife was seldom known to borrow, but was always willing to lend.

Of a summer evening they sat on the porch—sometimes for three hours—without speaking a word to each other.

After supper of a winter's evening the deacon built a roaring fire in the sitting room, and then with a candle in one hand and a blue pitcher in the other he descended to the cellar. The barrel of cider stood in the northeast corner. He knelt before it and drew exactly a pint and a half of its contents. This was a pint for himself and half a pint for his good wife. It was never more and never less. The apple bin stood against the south wall. He went to it and selected four fine Baldwins and put them in his coattail pocket and marched up the stairs. His wife was ready with a damp cloth to give the apples a wipe. Three of them were for the deacon and one for his wife.

One winter when the first snowfall came the deacon hitched up the old horse to the "pung," or homemade sled, and started for the woods. Four inches of snow had fallen, and it was a brisk morning. The old horse squealed and kicked up his heels, and the deacon heard himself saying:

"Well, if I ain't glad to be alive this morning, though they have raised my taxes $2 more this year!"

When the deacon and his outfit entered the woods there was a rabbit's trail leading in the direction he wanted to go. He therefore followed it. It led into the woods and stopped at a hollow log.

The deacon advanced to the log and with the head of his ax struck a resounding blow. He did not see whether the rabbit ran out or not. His ear caught a jingling sound, and in the excitement the presence of bunny was entirely forgotten. It was a jingle of money—not greenbacks, but solid coin.

Five minutes later he was splitting the old log wide open and his eyes were bulging out and his cheeks were pale. There was coin before him—heaps of coin. It was all silver coin.

One, two, three, four capfuls of silver treasure. He carried each capful to the sled and emptied its contents upon the horse blanket. When all the money had been gathered he tied up the blanket. When he finally mounted the sled he gave the old horse three or four sharp cuts with the whip. They were the first blows the old nag had ever received at his hands, and they started him out at a lumbering gallop.

Horse and driver appeared at home in a sweat. They did not stop at the kitchen door, though Mrs. Thurston was there to ask what had happened.

"S-s-h! You go right into the house, Judith, and I will be there in a minute."

In five minutes he followed after her and laid the bundle of coin on the kitchen table with a clink that made her exclaim:

"Oh, deacon, have you picked up a lot of horseshoes?"

"Horseshoes nothing!!" he whispered as he untied the blanket and folded it back.

"Why, it's silver—it's money!"

"Of course it is, and I didn't rob anybody to get it either. I found it in a holler log."

"Deacon, we are rich!" whispered the wife as she locked the kitchen door and pulled down the shades.

"You bet we are," replied the deacon. "Help me count the money."

They counted it. It took them a full hour, but it was over at last, and there was just $5,000.

"Deacon," said she after a moment, "we allus wanted to go to Niagara Falls and see the water wasting itself, but you could never spare the money. We will go now, won't we?"

The deacon was silent, but there was such a look on his face as she had never seen before. It was a look of avarice and selfishness combined, and it was not good to see. She had to repeat her question before he replied.

"Judith, I want you to understand," said the deacon as he walked backward and forward, "there is to be no nonsense about this money. I may have to go to Niagara Falls on business, but you will stay at home and care for the house. I shall have to have a new suit of clothes, but you can get along with your old ones."

"But I have not had a new bonnet in fourteen years," she wailed.

"Your old one is all right."

And that treasure from the hollow log bred dissension almost within the hour it was found. Husband and wife took opposite stands, and things were getting ripe for a separation when the deacon passed one of the coins at the grocery. The grocer found it counterfeit, and the whole pile of silver was overhauled, to find that every coin was bogus. It had been hidden in the log by those who made it. When the sad truth stood revealed and the deacon had fumed and fretted and his wife had shed a few tears he stood before her and queried:

"Well, Judith, what are we going to do about it?"

"Quit being idiots," she answered.

And they then and there quit.

Cromwell's Way.

In the days when Oliver Cromwell was lord protector of England there was no fine discrimination to favor members of an embassy. When such members committed crimes against the law of the land they were held to the same accountability as though they had been natives. So it was that on July 10, 1653, Don Pantaleon Sa, a Portuguese nobleman, brother of the ambassador from that country to England and a knight of Malta, was beheaded on Tower hill. He had killed an Englishman, mistaking him for another. The Portuguese took refuge with his brother, the ambassador, who claimed that by the law of nations his house was an inviolable sanctuary for all his countrymen. Cromwell sent a messenger to state that if the criminal was not given up to the civil authorities the soldiers would be withdrawn from guarding the embassy and the mob left to do as it pleased. Every effort was made by the Portuguese and other ambassadors to save Don Pantaleon's life, but without avail. Cromwell made no other reply than, "Blood has been shed, and justice must be satisfied."—Indianapolis News.

Thackeray at Oxford.

An old story of Oxford and Thackeray is recalled by Thomas Plowman, who vouches in the Cornhill Magazine for the accuracy of his version. Thackeray had to apply to the vice chancellor for permission to lecture and found that gentleman ignorant alike of his name and fame.

Still, he had a trump card left, which he had been accustomed to consider would carry all before it wherever the English language was spoken. So, with a quiet smile of supreme confidence, he simply ejaculated, "'Vanity Fair,' you know!" Then at last, to his relief, a look of awakened intelligence manifested itself upon the vice chancellor's countenance, and Thackeray awaited the effusive outburst which would make amends for all. It came in the words, "Yes, yes, I have heard of 'Vanity Fair,' of course; it is mentioned in the 'Pilgrim's Progress.'"—Westminster Gazette.

To Make Copper Oxide.

An excellent way to make copper oxide for use in batteries is as follows: Take a quantity of copper filings or fine copper shavings and heat them in a cast iron container or in a crucible till they are red hot. Stir them with an iron rod, and while still stirring sprinkle a little water over the filings until they become ocher red. You will then have a good quality of copper oxide.

Copper oxide plates may be made as follows: Mix the granulated or coarse copper oxide with 5 per cent or 10 per cent of magnesium chloride and heat the heavy mass in forms made of iron sheeting, the forms being of the size of the wanted plate. The more chloride of magnesium used the more porous the plates will be. The coarser the copper oxide the better will be the results.—Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance.

Don't Eat Plaster of Paris

Most important of all the wealth that comes from the earth are the vast "bread mines" of the West, where the wheat roots dig wealth from the soil and, by a miracle which no human mind can understand, convert it into the solid spheres of grain from which is made. It is of the utmost importance to humanity that bread should be free from such adulterants as Plaster of Paris and alum, used in a certain brand of bread sold here to save on yeast and make the loaves look larger. Does YOUR grocer sell it? Shun the impure and INSIST ON GETTING TEICHLER'S BREAD!

TREE-PLANTING A STATE-WIDE NEED

That Ulster county has thirty per cent of its area in waste land which could produce valuable timber, regulate stream flow and incidentally conserve the soil and moisture was the broad statement made by Prof. R. T. Gheen, of the State College of Forestry, Syracuse University, in a talk before agriculture students at the high school on "Timber and its Uses." Introduced by R. J. Service, director of manual training, Prof. Gheen spoke most interestingly upon the rapidly diminishing timber supply in this country, citing New York state as the greatest consumer. This state now ranks 23d as a wood-producer as against ten years ago, when it was in eighth place.

In his opening remarks, Prof. Gheen stated that the people of the United States were using their timber three times as fast as it is being produced and that for every five feet of timber used per capita in the state of New York each year one board foot was produced within the state. In Germany where they practice forest conservation, for every five board feet which are produced per capita, one board foot is used because Germany once faced a timber famine and forestry "arrived" there 300 years ago. Forestry on similar scientific lines was introduced in New York within the last twenty years.

Douglas Fir is Popular.

"One-third of the total stand of timber in the United States," said Professor Gheen, "is in the two states of Washington and Oregon. There are from 250 to 300 railroads in Washington which do nothing but transport logs from the woods to the mill. One of the principal trees found in the west which is being used in the east more and more although introduced here only during the last five years is the Douglas fir, known on the market as Oregon pine or red fir, or yellow fir. The red and yellow fir are produced in the same tree and are the same form of tree growth, being merely two different forms of the wood. This wood is used by telephone companies in the manufacture of crossarms for stringing wires, being the wood most in demand for this purpose, as well as in the manufacture of silos and general building purposes."

White Pine Most Useful.

Tree life on this continent is divided into two broad classes, coniferous and deciduous trees, which were described by the speaker in detail with their principal characteristics and uses as merchantable timber. White pine and red spruce, he said, were the two important conifers in this state, the former being the most valuable of all soft woods and having a wide variety of uses. It is also a good tree for reforestation purposes where it is not attacked by the white pine weevil, which injures the terminal bud and stunts tree growth.

Red spruce, another valuable wood, is used chiefly in the production of paper, which industry uses a million cords a year of this wood. To make the caps for the milk bottles used in one day in New York city, six cords of red spruce are required, which gives an idea of the extent this material is used in paper making.

"Shortening" Of Wood Product.

House-keepers interested in the statistics on milk bottle caps will also be glad to know of the progress made in the conservation of waste which is now ground up into wood pulp for paper and is also used he said, in the making of "Kream Krisp," a substitute for lard. Other byproducts made from the waste of one mill are underground conduit fibre and furniture. Of every tree cut in the American forest only 40 per cent is utilized according to Prof. Gheen and the problem of conserving the 60 per cent waste is up to the chemists of the future.

Hemlock, one of the principal coniferous trees, for coniferous trees used for construction purposes has soared in price to $25 or $30 a thousand while white pine has gone to $60 and $80 a thousand feet. Clear white pine is one of the scarcest of lumbers.

Birch's Deceiving Uses.

Of the hard woods in the state, chief are the yellow birch, the maple and the beech, these woods having been considered of little value 15 years ago. Maple, susceptible of high polish, is used for flooring and furniture, shoe lasts and professional instruments. Birch figures in imitation mahogany and so good is the substitute that even the speaker was nearly deceived in a bed that he purchased as a mahogany four-poster. He did not touch upon the uses of birch in the cause of education.

Beech is a flooring wood and rough lumber while ash is the material for baseball bats, the material for the big league classics coming largely from neighboring Sullivan county. Hickory also goes into bats but this wood is chiefly used in the making of hammer handles. Originally the local supply at Norwich was sufficient for the Maydole factories there, said the speaker, but today Arkansas and the Middle West supply this wood.

Another valuable local wood is the tulip tree which figures as a substitute for white pine.

Fast Growing Trees Best.

Professor Gheen referred to the pines of the west and southwest and the four species of southern pine which furnish one-third of all the lumber used in the United States.

"For the reforestation of the state of New York," said Prof. Gheen, "we recommend fast-growing species of pine and spruce, something which will be of commercial value in comparatively short time. White pine and red pine are adapted to higher elevations such as the Catskills afford and the spruce to the land which has more moisture."

Methods of reforestation were interestingly described, the trees being planted six feet apart, giving each tree 36 square feet or 1,200 trees to the acre. The State Conservation Commission at Albany will supply these trees at cost of production from $2 to $4 per thousand. Two men should put in 1,000 trees a day and the point was made that this would be a good field for effort on the part of high school students to substitute scientific reforestation programs on a small scale for Arbor Day programs. Jamestown and New Berlin are working out most beautiful and educational park systems by this method.

New York to Lead Country.

The chestnut blight, introduced from Japan 20 years ago, was touched upon by the speaker who advocated the cutting out of the infected trees and branches in fall or winter or early spring. In this way the remaining trees can be saved as it is the belief of experts that the blight has about run its course.

"Today the timber supply in this country is fast diminishing," said Prof. Gheen in conclusion. "While we have heavy stands in the west these are inaccessible in a large measure and New York State, with its superior transportation facilities, must take the lead as a forest state because of its vast areas of waste land which are suitable for the production of forest trees only."

Professor Gheen's lecture was very well received and at its conclusion he gave some data with regard to planting of trees on the school grounds. On his next visit here the professor will accompany the class in agriculture on a walk in the mountains for a study of tree life in this vicinity. Professor Gheen speaks in Hurley Saturday night and Farm Bureau Manager W. H. Hook will be in attendance at the meeting which is under the auspices of the Grange.

Mr. Malcolm has had a stroke of paralysis about a year ago and is quite feeble. The above is mentioned because there are still some who will remember Augustus Malcolm, as he was born on the old Malcolm farm, west of Milton, and when a young man went west, where he and his wife, Mary Ann Townsend, formed what is known as the pioneer home of the Malcolm family of Iowa. There were eight children born to Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm, all of whom are still living, but one, the youngest, little Ferris, who died at he age of four years. Although these children have married and have homes in various places in that state, the pioneer farm home, with the little log cabin, is still kept in the family.

DOSE AS ARM ORNAMENT

FLOWER-STUDDED ARMLET OR ANKLET, SOCIETY'S NEW FAD.

New York, Jan. 28.—The latest feminine craze is so effective, yet simple and inexpensive an addition to the evening toilet that it is being universally adopted.

It consists simply of a band of ferns set off with a red rose, or if desired, the wearer's favorite flower.

Just imagine a perfectly formed arm. Then leave this arm entirely undraped from shoulder to finger tip. About the cosy curve of the upper arm, against the whiteness of the skin, twine a small bit of feathery fern. Then use this natural armlet to hold in place a red, yes, a deep red, rose bud!

The effect is striking. The very simplicity of the idea gives it instant attention. During the past few days a number of prominent young women have appeared with simple flower ornaments.

Nor is the flower ornament confined to the better display of an attractive arm. Some of the more artistic have managed to find a way to call attention to a superior attraction by the same method. A woman whose pride is a dainty foot and ankle deftly hangs her green band and rose setting about the ankle.

LOUIS BRANDEIS SUCCEEDS LAMAR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Appointed by President Wilson a Judge of the U. S. Supreme Court —First Jew to Become a Member of the Highest Court.

Washington, Jan. 28.—President Wilson today sent to the senate the nomination of Louis Dembitz Brandeis of Boston to be supreme court judge to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Joseph Rucker Lamar.

Mr. Brandeis always has been known as an independent in politics with leanings towards the Democratic party.

Mr. Brandeis is the first man of the Jewish faith to be named to the supreme court bench.

He is well known in the legal world. Since 1897, when he became senior member of the firm of Brandeis, Dunbar and Nutter he has been prominently connected with many important litigations, including the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation. He was also chairman of the board of arbitration in the big garment workers' strike in New York in 1910.

He was counsel for the shippers in the advanced freight rate investigation before the interstate commission; he was counsel for the people in the proceedings involving the constitutionality of the Oregon and Illinois ten-hour laws for women.

Mr. Brandeis is 59 years old. He was born November 13, 1856, at Louisville, Ky. He obtained his early education in the public and high schools of Louisville and later went abroad where he attended Annen Realschule at Dresden, Germany. Later he went to Harvard where he obtained his law degree in 1877. The following year he was admitted to the bar.

Earned a Half Holiday.

Most of the grammar school children enjoyed a half holiday this afternoon, having "made their per cent" in attendance. They dropped their overcoats and entered with all their hearts in the various activities that only school children know how to enjoy—"miggles," roller skating and spinning tops. The unfortunates, who were very few in number, looked out of the school windows while they should be learning the location of the Black Sea or the arithmetical advantage of 2x2.

Firemen Overcome by Fumes.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 28.—Fire chiefs reported that more than one hundred firemen had been overcome by the fumes of burning chemicals in a fire in the Old Hall Building this afternoon. The fire had started earlier in the day and apparently was checked after six firemen had been overcome by smoke. Later it broke out afresh. All apparatus in the city has been called out.

Looking for Human Fiend.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—Every policeman and detective in the city is on the lookout today for the "Acid man" responsible for the death of Julius Clemens, a three weeks old baby. The man is supposed to be a drug fiend. He poured carbolic acid in the infant's mouth while the mother was in a store buying candy for her four year old daughter, Leonia.

Chicago Bandits Caught.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The police today announced that they had arrested the five "baby bandits" who took part in yesterday's robbery of the Washington Park National Bank, and that they had recovered nearly all of the $15,616 which the youths obtained in their bold raid.

False Report of Marriage.

Some Smart Alec has been circulating a story that George Post of this city was married about three weeks ago, greatly to the annoyance of Mr. Post, who says there is no truth in the report.

SLANDER.

The many persons who are always quick to spread evil reports about other persons should ponder these words of Henry van Dyke: "Never believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know it is true and never tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary."

THE SHADOWS.

Do not borrow trouble and do not anticipate misfortunes. Were a man's sorrows and disquietudes summed up at the end of his life it would generally be found that he had suffered more from the apprehension of such evils as never happened to him than from those evils which had really befallen him.

YOUNG HORSE THIEF IS FEEBLE MINDED

Charles Newkirk, the 16 year old horse thief, of New Paltz, who pleaded guilty through his attorney, Newton Fessenden, to the charge of grand larceny in the second degree at the last term of county court, has been committed by Judge Jenkins to the Letchworth village, a state institution for feeble minded children, at Thiels in Rockland county.

Drs. Chandler and E. H. Loughran examined the boy this week and found him weak mentally and as a result of this and other investigations into the life of the boy Judge Jenkins decided that the law of humanity, instead of the strict provisions of the criminal law, should be applied. Miss Gertrude Bruyn, county agent for dependent children, and Mrs. Laura MacMillan of the social service board spent much time investigating the life of the youthful offender and found that he had been criminally inclined through his whole life.

With other young law breakers he had gotten in trouble in New Paltz several times and was sentenced at one time to the House of Industry at Rochester. Newkirk is undeveloped and appears younger than his age by several years. His mother requested the judge to commit her son to an institution rather than have him branded all his life as a criminal.

Ellenville to Kingston R. R. Co.

The Ellenville & Kingston Railroad Company's stockholders held their annual meeting in this city on Wednesday and elected as directors for the ensuing year T. DeWitt Cuyler, Howard Elliott, Lorenzo M. Gillet, John B. Kerr, Frederick B. Levelace, Francis T. Maxwell, Edward Milligan, Richard O. Rickard and A. Heaton Robertson. Inspectors of election are George Marsden and S. O. Durland.

Game of Poker Universal.

The distinctly American game of cards is poker, and, since its origin here, it has traveled to nearly all the countries abroad, making its identity known even in the ships on crossing.

Going to the Revival Meetings?

The active animals as well as those which hibernate have been deluded by the warm weather of the past two days into believing that spring had arrived, and several squirrels have been seen in various parts of town. One squirrel appeared about noon today near the corner of Main and Fair street, where it excited attention. Finally the squirrel became frightened and ran up one of the big trees in front of the Preston building. When it reached one of the big upper limbs, it ran out to the end and then leaped to the roof of St. James's Methodist Episcopal Church, where it disappeared.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

"DIED of Slip-Shod Advertising Methods" could be written over the grave of many a dead business. "Oh, that's good enough," is the siren song that has lured store after store onto the shoals of bankruptcy or financial disaster. Advertising pays if judiciously written; careless methods are extravagance. My advertisement, booklet and circular building weaves itself into the woof and warp of the fabric that binds trade together. Write me for terms. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

THOUSANDS DRIVEN OUT BY FLOODS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 28.—A thousand families in Desha and adjoining counties in Arkansas along the White and Arkansas rivers, driven from their homes by the biggest flood ever known in that section, were rescued today from the tops of trees after enduring a drenching rain all night. Among those rescued were many mothers with babes in their arms.

At Lundel, Ark., the river rose six feet last night forcing hundreds of persons to take refuge on small skiffs or tree tops. Rescue parties have gone to their aid.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Elisha Ayers, an old and respected resident of High Falls, who has been stopping with his son, William, at the Central House, died on Tuesday evening at the age of 74 years. Funeral was held from the Central House at 3 p. m. on Thursday. Interment High Falls Friday afternoon. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and three sons, Mrs. A. McCreery, Mrs. Robert Terns and Mrs. Arthur Reed, and William, Elmer and Arthur.

Dr. Calvin Emerick, who died of pneumonia at his home in Glasco about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, was a native of the town of Saugerties, having been born at Evesport, and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Emerick. He was in the 46th year of his age. Dr. Emerick was a graduate of the Albany Medical College, and a very successful practitioner, enjoying a large and extensive practice throughout the lower part of the town and also in the town of Ulster, where he held the position as health officer. He formerly practiced in Woodstock and came from there to Glasco. The deceased was affiliated with the Masonic, Odd Fellows, Red Men's and firemanic fraternities. He held membership in Ulster Lodge, No. 193, F. & A. M., and Esopus Tribe, No. 482, Imp. O. R. M., of Saugerties, Bearsville Lodge, No. 533, I. O. O. F., of Bearsville, and Mulford Engine Co., of Glasco. In these organizations he was highly regarded and much respected. Dr. Emerick was fond of hunting and fishing, and was connected with the Saugerties Fish and Game Club. At one time he held the position of state fish and game protector for this county, and during his term succeeded in stopping many violations of these laws. That Dr. Emerick was cut down in the prime of his professional career and usefulness is a source of great regret, especially among the very many whom he had helped back to health, and his early and apparently untimely passing shocks and grieves all who knew him. The doctor is survived by a wife, his aged parents, four sisters and a brother, Dr. Luther Emerick of Saugerties. The funeral services Sunday at 1:30 o'clock, will be held at the late residence. Esopus Tribe will be in charge of the services.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—There was a show of strength in the stock market at the opening today with substantial gains in many important issues, but the demand was supplied quickly and before the end of the first 15 minutes numerous stocks were pressed for sale and yielded to below yesterday's close. The war order issues were among the strongest features at the outset, Industrial Alcohol rising 2¾ to 153¾ and Crucible Steel 2 points to 69¼. There was a good demand for Steel Common, which rose ⅝ to 84, but it lost the gain in the next few minutes. American Can opened ⅛ higher at 63¾ and then declined to 62⅞. Erie dropped ½ to 36⅜ and Union Pacific ¾ to 134. Mexican Petroleum moved up ⅞ to 103⅜ followed by a reaction to 102½. The remainder of the list moved in about the same way with nearly all the active issues in free supply. Part of the selling was for foreign account.

During the late forenoon the demand for stocks increased and nearly everything on the list made substancial gains. The war order issues assumed the most prominent position, with most interest attached to Crucible Steel which advanced to 71, a new high mark for the year and a gain of 3¾ points for the morning. Baldwin Locomotive was in brisk demand, rising 2 points to 109½. Lackawanna Steel advanced 1⅜ to 81½ and many of the minor industrials were active and strong, Pressed Steel Car advancing 1½ to 57, Colorada Fuel 1¼ to 45¾, and Great Northern Ore 1½ to 45¾. Many of th old time standard issues were in good request, Interborough consolidated preferred advancing 1½ to 75½ and American Tel. and Tel., Western Union and American Smelting all made fractional gains. Money lending 1¾.

Price movements in the late afternoon were narrow, some issues making fractional gains, which were followed by moderate reactions. Marine preferred showed a better tone, advancing a point to 82¼. Crucible Steel sold up to 75⅛, a gain in all of over six points. American Can advanced a point to 64⅜, followed by a reaction to 63¾.

The market closed easy. The demand was less active late in the day and toward the end profit taking caused important recession. New Haven showed extreme weakness on reports that a preferred stock issue would be made. This stock fell 3 points to 68. The setback in New Haven caused fresh confidence among the bears. Crucible Steel yielded about a point from the top. Government bonds unchanged; others strong.

The Dog Rose.

The "dog rose" has provoked as much ingenious explanation of its name as the "horse chestnut." One solution is that the "dog" is really "dagga," a dagger, in allusion to the prickles, a drawback from which the Alexandra Day rose is free. Unfortunately for this explanation, the flower bears a similar name in countries where it will not apply. The Germans, for instance, have "Hundsrose," and Pliny tells how a Roman mother was moved in a dream to send some roots of the wild rose to her soldier son in Spain. They arrived just after he had been bitten by a mad dog. He took them and was preserved from hydrophobia, as were others who adopted the same treatment. And from that time the wild rose became the "dog rose."—London Chronicle.

A Roller Skating Auxiliary.

The warm weather today and sidewalks free from ice brought out scores of boys and girls on roller skates. One group of boys and girls who raced along the sidewalk on Fair street between Main and John streets made use of a dog in order to gain time. The boys took turns in holding the dog by the collar, and then by urging to "Sic 'em, Towser," they were carried along at a rapid rate from one end of the block to the other.

Don't forget the date, and be sure and go to hear it.

Knights of Pythias met on Wednesday evening, and the officers were installed for the ensuing year. This lodge used to have receptions that the members and families greatly enjoyed, but of late the interest seems to have died, and they have taken a back seat, as it were. Why not renew your activities. Get busy, get a program up, committees appointed, and have a fine reception once again, and all catch the contagion of sociability, for there are plenty who would help you.

They gave her a gift, being a reminder of the esteem of all. Refreshments were served, and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. She will be missed a great deal, for by her sweet manner and many good qualities she was a great deal thought of by all in the school.

Miss Anna Kilcawley of Highland Mills was in town last Sunday. She is attending school at the Normal at New Paltz.

Mrs. George Auchmoody has been ill with grip, also her daughter, Florence, and in fact, it seems, there are few families who escape the fearful disease. Nearly everyone has it in some form.

Mrs. Hasbrouck, mother of Mrs. Harcourt Pratt, is ill, at the home of her daughter. We understand she has pneumonia. Her friends hope to hear of her improvement.

Mrs. George Pratt had as her guest last week her sister from New Paltz.

The new teacher, Miss Williams, has arrived and is on duty. She is to take the place of Miss Strickler, who was compelled to give up the work on account of severe illness of her mother, who does not improve as much as was expected.

Mr. Cluett of Poughkeepsie, father of Mrs. Philip Schantz, died Saturday, January 22, after a long illness. The funeral was held from his late home Tuesday, January 25. He had resided in Poughkepsie for years and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. Friends from here extend heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Philip Schantz in this, her hour of great bereavement.

Miss Rowena Harcourt was the hostess last Saturday afternoon to members of the U. D. Society. At this meeting discussions took place in regard to a chicken pie supper, which was to have been held February 11, for library, and on account of the vast amount of sickness among the people in the community it was decided to call off the affair until later, when it is hoped that good health may take the place of sickness, which is so prevalent here at present.

Hope the churches may receive the same cordial support.

Mrs. A. W. Lent was in Poughkeepsie Thursday attending a suffrage meeting at the Nelson House.

Miss Strickler who came here the first of the week to resume her duties in the high school as teacher, has found, through the severe illness of her mother, she would be unable to remain, and has resigned to the regret of the faculty and pupils. She made a great many friends while here.

Helen Hasbrouck of New Paltz was a guest of friends in town last week.

Committees of D. of A. play to be given soon, met Friday with Mrs. A. W. Lent at her home, Milton avenue, to make the plans, and reporter was informed it takes the form of a Mother Goose affair, and will create quite some sport for the grown-ups will represent children.

Wednesday afternoon Miss Rowena Harcourt entertained several guests at her home on Main street. All spent the time pleasantly at visiting and fancy work. The hostess served refreshments, which all thoroughly enjoyed.

Harry Maynard, who left last Sunday for Miama, Florida, sent word here that Tuesday he was in Jacksonville and before ....s goes to print he will be at his destination. He will just enjoy the south while we later on, perhaps, will have some cold weather to pay up for this January thaw. If the grip would only let go its grip and never again show up, the people would go in raptures over it, we think, for nearly every one has had it or are getting over it, or in other words, catching it.

BRITISH PONTOON BRIDGE AT KUT-EL-AMARA, BESIEGED BY TURKS.

One of the big features of the war during the past two months has been the Turkish siege of the British garrison at Kut-el-Amara, in Mesopotamia. The force sent to the aid of the besieged garrison has met with extremely heavy losses, according to late reports.

This picture was made just before the Turks laid siege to the post and was brought out with one of the last men to leave. It shows a pontoon bridge at Kut-el-Amara, with the "draw" open to allow the passage of a military launch.

JOKER IN AUTO LEAGUE AGREEMENT

Elmira Contingent Paid $10 Each For the Privilege of Being Sued—Some Settle, Others Will Fight.

A meeting of about fifteen of the 100 Elmira motorists who paid $10 each for the privilege of becoming members of the International Automobile League, Inc., was held recently. This was supposed to entitle them to the privilege of buying tires, oils and various accessories at cost prices. They were to save fabulous sums.

Some Elmirans joined the league six or seven years ago, and failing to discover the joker in their agreement, now find themselves liable to suit to recover anywhere from $10 $50. One member, John C. Zimmerman, of 117 Lormore street, already has been served with papers in an action to recover $60, which is $10 a year for six years. He will fight the case, and has retained Attorney M. O'Connor. He says he never tried to buy of the league only once, and that purchase was unsatisfactory.

Other Elmirans have settled with the league and some have compromised. Some others will fight. They have been informed that unless they settle at once suit will begin. The cases are brought in court in Buffalo. That the league is making a wholesale business of it is shown by the printed blank forms of complaint which have been served.

A clever salesman interested the Elmirans in the game, as they did men all over the state. They signed and paid their $10 for one year's membership. The thing which they signed and to which they paid no attention in after years when bills were sent them, now appears to have read: "I hereby make application for membership * * * etc., * * * my membership to continue from year to year under the same terms (of $10 a year) unless I notify the league in writing 30 days prior to the expiration of membership."

The application also says: "If I purchase supplies for any machine other than my own, it is hereby understood that I forfeit my membership."

The new membership application is even more strict. It says: "My membership is to begin, if my application is accepted, within five days after this application reaches the home office and to run until notice of discontinuance thereof. Such notice shall be given over my signature by registered letter at least 60 days before the expiration of any year thereof and only while not in arrears."

The last sentence of them is in blackface type. Some of the Elmirans signed under the old application, some under the new. At this meeting, when the light was flashed on the men present, they went forth and sent in their registered letter resignations. It developed that some of them also had obtained membership for as low as $5 and that many of them had been unable to get what they wanted to buy through the league.

In Mr. Zimmerman's case, he joined in 1909 and paid that year. He was dissatisfied with his purchases and paid no more attention to the thing. Because he failed to serve formal notice that he would not renew his membership, now he is defendant in a suit to recover $60. Others will be in the same fix. Some became scared and settled. The concern is located in Buffalo.

It was the consensus of opinion of the meeting that the matter should be made plain to all members of the Elmira Automobile Club and through them every motor club and motorist in the state should be told of the nature of the application offered by this concern and of the way it operates.—Motordom.

Marbles Made Iceman Ponder.

With the springlike weather of the past week marbles have been in evidence on the sidewalks. The face of one local iceman watching this form of January enjoyment was a study. But he will cheer up with the rest of them at the weather report of a cold wave sweeping this way from the west.

"Wealthy magnates are a menace to baseball," asserts Bob Hedges, ex-owner of the Browns. "The owners with huge bankrolls can go the limit in purchasing talent. This eventually makes a league top-heavy."

Is Hedges right—or wrong?

The greatest team ever welded together in American League history was Connie Mack's Athletics. Connie didn't pay much more for his stars than the ordinary man pays in one year for cigars.

The Giant club is supposed to be backed by wealth. An unlimited bankroll was at the command of John McGraw in 1915—and the Giants finished last.

Charlie Comisky spent more than $100,000 in trying to "buy" a pennant winner. He failed.

The Phillie owners are not wealthy, yet they breezed under the wire a winner in 1915—and with a bunch of misfits making up the club.

Hedges is right as to his statement that wealthy magnates can buy star players—but money can't make 'em win a pennant.

The owners want $560,000 for the collection. Prospective buyers bid $450,000. Why not weigh the heads of the players and so arrive at a fair figure?

"Topay" Hartsel, former Athletic star, is making money through the operation of an automatic baseball machine in Toledo. The machine pitches the balls and the player acts as batsman. The object is to drive the ball against a canvas. Points are scored according to where the ball hits.

Toledo fans are flocking to "Topay's" place and getting heaps of batting practice.

Alec Goodman, trainer for Ted Lewis, the English welterweight, must feed his charges some secret prescription. In no other way can the folks figure out how Lewis can fight at 135 pounds one week, 145 the next, and 135 again two weeks later.

Goodman is a wizard in his knowledge of diets and he keeps Lewis in perfect physical condition despite the fact that Lewis fluctuates 10 pounds in weight two and three times a month.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—Firmin Cassignol, the French billiardist, has challenged Willie Hoppe to a contest at either 18.1 or 18.2 balk line, for the title. Hoppe holds both these titles. The champion is now in the west on an exhibition tour with Yamada, the Japanese player.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 28.—To show the world that he is a likely opponent of Jess Willard, Fred Fulton is in fine fettle for his twenty round bout with Porky Flynn tonight. The Minnesota heavyweight expects to win handily. Flynn also is in good shape and has been trained for the bout by Sam Langford. Flynn says he will shatter Fulton's confidence.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 8.—The Colgate University basketball five was defeated by the University of Pittsburgh in a fast game last night by a score of 27 to 23.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 28.—Fred Toney wants $6,000 to pitch for the Reds this year. If his terms are accepted he will guarantee to win 25 or 30 games, provided the team makes at least four runs in every game he pitches. The club has offered Toney $4,000.

New York, Jan. 28.—A new star shone on the wrestling horizon today. From out of the west came Joe Stecher, a big strong farmer boy from Dodge Neb. He met the "Masked Marvel" (Mort Henderson) last night and stripped the mysterious one of all his mystery. The pair met in a catch-as-catch-can match, best two in three falls. Stecher was in a hurry. He wanted to show the eastern fans that he was some mat artist. He made good. Two falls finished the match. They were secured so quickly that before the crowd realized it the "Masked One" had lost. Stecher used his famous scissors hold in securing both falls. The first time he pinned his opponent's shoulders to the mat in nine minutes and 50 seconds; the second time he only took five minutes and 51 seconds.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 28.—George Chaney, who is to meet Johnny Kilbane here March 17, last night defeated Frankie Nelson, of Jersey City, in the third round of their scheduled ten round bout.

HIGH SCHOOL'S MIDGET WONDERS

Another high school athletic organization that is making a name for itself is the "Midget" basketball five, a team of young basketball tossers the average weight of which is less than 110 pounds.

Thursday afternoon they enjoyed themselves immensely at the expense of the Miami five, outclassing them by the self-explanatory score of 55 to 13. The victory was more glorious than usual on account of the lack of individual playing. It was a passing game throughout and there was very little dribbling. All of the young athletes played good and their eyesight so far as basket-shooting is concerned is shown by the large score, which follows:

Looking For Games.

The Midgets are looking for games with teams under 110 pounds as the average weight. Any five in this vicinity will be played qualifying to that condition and which is of a good reputation. The Midgets are seeking the championship of this vicinity for teams of their weight and are to schedule several out-of-town games.

A game has been scheduled with the Rhinecliff midgets for next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the high school gymnasium. Games will probably be scheduled with Newburgh and Poughkeepsie teams.

Self-Examination First.

No one can hope to make any real progress in the pursuit and apprehension of truth who does not industriously ply the broom of impartial judgment, mercilessly sweeping down the cobwebs of misconception and error. Part of this work we can do for others, but we must begin by removing the beam from our own eye before seeking to cast out the mote that dims our brother's vision.—Zion's Herald.

Need for Sobriety of Mind.

Sobriety of mind is one of those virtues which the present condition of human life strongly inculcates. The uncertainty of its enjoyments checks presumption; the multiplicity of its dangers demands perpetual caution. Moderation, vigilance and self-government, are duties incumbent on all; but especially on such as are beginning the journey of life.—Dr. H. Blair.

CRACK ARMY ATHLETE

Oliphant Is Only Cadet to Win "A" in Four Sports.

If Cadet Elmer Quillen Oliphant, the dashing halfback of the Army eleven last fall, gains promotion and fame in the Army after his graduation from West Point two and a half years hence as rapidly as he has attained rank and prominence in athletic pursuits, he will be the recipient of words of commendation and the like from the very start of his career as a soldier.

Cadet Oliphant is one of the best athletes that ever entered the Military academy. In fact, he is the only cadet who ever won the coveted "A" in four sports since the beginning of athletic competition at the Point, 25 years ago.

No West Point man has ever been graduated with the "A" won in more than three branches of sport at the academy. There are upward of 400 "A" men among the alumni of West Point, too, and most of these men were the entire four years accumulating their "A's." Oliphant has been there since June, 1914.

Oliphant is a son of Marion E. Oliphant of Bruceville, Ind. He was born at Bloomfield, that state, twenty-two years ago. He was a leader in athletics among the boys of his town at an early age, and attended the Washington (Ind.) High school for three years. He left Washington and went to the Linton (Ind.) High school, from which institution he was graduated in 1910, and went to Purdue university at Lafayette. At Purdue he is classed as the greatest athlete who ever graced that university with his presence. He won letters and numerals galore, and life-size pictures of this Indiana lad hang in Purdue's athletic hall of fame, showing him dressed in various athletic costumes.

Elmer Q. Oliphant of West Point.

TO UPHOLD HONOR OF COAST

At Least Twenty Athletes to Take Part in National Championships at Newark, N. J.

When the track and field athletes from all parts of the United States strip for the national championship at Newark next summer, the Pacific coast will be represented by the largest aggregation that ever went out to uphold the honor of that part of the United States.

Plans are being laid far in advance by the men of athletic affairs on the coast for the raising of a large fund to finance a team of not less than twenty men for the Newark games. The Olympic club of San Francisco, the Multnomah Amateur Athletic association of Portland, the Seattle Athletic club and the Los Angeles Athletic club will take the lead in the work of organizing an all-Pacific coast team.

It is expected each of these organizations will contribute funds to be added to the money that will be allowed the Pacific coast by the championship committee for the transportation of the team. Added to these funds will be the profits of the Pacific coast national championship tryouts, which will be run on a large scale in one of the coast cities.

The victory of the Olympic club in the 1915 national championships at the Panama-Pacific exposition has brought about a fine, healthy boom in track sports on the coast, and the natural result is a desire to maintain the prestige won at the Frisco meet in the championships at Newark in 1916.

Atlantic Coast Bowling Tourney.

Washington, D. C., has organized a stock company to finance the tournament company which will hold the second annual tourney of the Atlantic Coast Bowling association, the eastern governing body which includes small ball as well as the large style of bowling among its championship events. The tourney will be held next April, and it is estimated the cost will be about $8,000.

THE WHIP IN RIFLE BARRELS.

It Is Caused by the Pressure of Modern High Power Powder.

The use of high power powder in rifles has given rise to a phenomenon which did not exist in black powder days. This is known as "whip" and is due to the pressure and vibration set up by the powder. It is constant with given loads and is always in the same direction.

Sights are aligned by the manufacturer to compensate for this whip in proportion to the powder charge used. In firing auxiliary cartridges it will often be found that the rifle shoots off center. As a matter of fact the bullet from the auxiliary is traveling in a true line with the bore, and it is the sights that are wrong. The lighter charge of the auxiliary does not produce the usual whip, with the result that the line in prolongation of the bore of the rifle along which the bullet travels is not the line given by the alignment of the sights.

Two other rifle terms that must not be confused are upsettage and keyholing. Keyholing is the tendency of the bullet to turn over in flight, while upsettage is the slight shortening of the major axis of the bullet due to the force of the charge. It was peculiar to black powder fired behind lead bullets and does not exist to any appreciable extent in metal jacketed bullets with smokeless powder. In the latter case the charge burns more slowly and the jacket stiffens the bullet against the sudden blow from behind.—Outing.

ORIGIN OF THE PERISCOPE.

Speaking of the origin of the periscope, the following extract from the writings of the well known inventor of "Pepper's Ghost" gives the credit to the clerical profession. Pepper wrote soon after the Crimean war:

"During the siege of Sebastopol numbers of our best artillerymen were continually picked off by the enemy's rifles as well as by cannon shot, and in order to put a stop to the foolhardiness and incautiousness of the men, a very ingenious contrivance was invented by the Rev. William Taylor, the coadjutor of Mr. Denison in constructing the first 'Big Ben' bell. It was called the reflecting spyglass, and by its simple construction rendered the exposure of the sailors and soldiers who would look over the parapet or other parts of the works to observe the effect of their shots perfectly unnecessary, while another form was constructed for the purpose of allowing the gunner to 'lay' or aim his gun in safety.

"The instruments were shown to Lord Panmure, who was so convinced of the importance of the invention that he immediately commissioned the Rev. William Taylor to have a number of these telescopes constructed, and if the siege had not terminated just at the time the invention was to have been used no doubt a great saving of the valuable lives of the skilled artillerymen would have been effected."—London Express.

Gam's Dry Humor.

When the gallant Welsh captain, David Gam, was sent forward by Henry V. to reconnoiter the French army before the battle of Agincourt he found that the enemy outnumbered the English by about five to one. His report to the king is historic:

"There are enough to be killed, enough to be taken prisoners and enough to run away."

This quaint forecast of the result of the battle at once spread through the camp, and doubtless every yeoman archer of the valiant company felt an inch taller. We know that it was almost literally justified by the event. Poor Gam's dry humor was equaled by his courage. He was killed while in the act of saving the life of his prince.—London Standard.

Distilled Water.

Distilled water after having been exposed to the air is one of the most salubrious of drinks. Its daily use in measured quantities is helpful in cases of dyspepsia and greatly assists the general functions of the body. Every large steamer carries a water distilling apparatus by which sea water is made fresh. In the days before steamers primitive distilling apparatus was used on warships and vessels carrying passengers.

Well Fitted.

"Yes, grandma; I am to be married next month."

"But, my dear," said grandma earnestly, "you are very young. Do you feel that you are fitted for married life?"

"I am being fitted now, grandma," explained the prospective bride sweetly. "Seven gowns!"—Kansas City Journal.

More Than the Average.

Mrs. Wayup—How much sleep do I need, doctor? Doctor—Well, the average person needs about seven hours. Mrs. Wayup—Then I shall take about fourteen. I consider I am much above the average.—Judge.

Combinations of taffeta and serge are shown in many of the smartest spring models. Here a combination of tan pussy willow and garbardine is used, the taffeta predominating. The deep fold in the skirt and a narrower fold outline the short smart jacket. A touch of colored embroidery on the collar lends a charming, contrasting note.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

Whiteport.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ellen Driscoll, when her daughter, Mary, was united in marriage to Andrew J. Oulton of Kingston by the Rev. Father Duffy of Rosendale. The bride was attired in a blue velvet traveling suit with hat to match. She carried a large bouquet of sweet peas, while Miss Katherine Driscol, a sister, who acted as bridesmaid, was dressed in a brown velvet suit and white hat, also carrying a bouquet of sweet peas. The groom wore a black suit and his brother, Thomas Oulton, acted as best man. After the ceremony a dinner was served in the Knights of Labor Hall, it being decorated for the purpose with smilax, carnations and roses. About 75 guests from Kingston, New York, Jersey City, Albany and Schenectady were present. The couple received many presents, among them being cut glass, silver and a check. The bride and groom left town amid the good wishes of all present, a shower of rice, old shoes and cornstalks for a honeymoon trip, embracing Buffalo and Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside in Kingston, where a furnished home awaits them. Their large circle of friends wish them all the success and luck attending their married life.

Another's Lot.

The other girl's lot is pretty sure to seem preferable to yours, is it not? Its charms shine with a brighter luster, the drawbacks shrink into insignificance, as we regard it. Yet nine out of ten of the people who envy their neighbors would be rendered unhappy by an exchange. The halo which surrounds another's lot would vanish if it became ours.

Tactless.

"I don't think it was a bit nice for the rector to commend women's economy in dress," said the wife to her husband after the service.

"That shouldn't have annoyed you, my dear," was the reply. "Your gown is plain enough."

"Exactly! His remark called everybody's attention to what I had on."—Exchange.

The Trouble.

"Have you explained the germ system to your children? Everything should be on a practical basis these days."

"No," replied the old fashioned citizen. "It seems inconsistent to tell 'em not to believe in fairies and then try to get 'em to believe in microbes."—Pittsburgh Post.

John Brown's Compass.

A compass, once the property of John Brown, which played a part in early history, is in the museum of the Kansas State Historical society in Topeka. John Brown used the instrument when he was living in Osawatomie, in the years between 1855 and 1858. During the Missouri-Kansas border warfare in those days, the story goes, the abolitionist leader used the compass in a pretence of surveying land, when in reality he was locating and mapping the camps of proslavery men.—Kansas City Journal.

Helping Him Along.

"I want to get up, doctor," said the patient in the hospital.

"But your heart is weak," replied the medical man.

Sawed-Off Sermon.

One should make allowance for youthful follies. The cat, the gravest of all animals, is the most frisky when young.—Indianapolis Star.

The Ruling Passion.

It is related of a certain German savant, to show how strong the ruling passion is in death, that as he was dying he exclaimed in French, in which language he was deeply learned, "Je meurs" (I die). Pretty soon he opened his eyes before passing away and added, "Man kann auch sagen, Je me meurs!" (One can also in French use the reflexive form of the verb "to die.") His last flicker of interest was in the word more than in the fact of death.

True to Life.

"First really realistic novel I ever read."

"What's so realistic about it?"

"Didn't you notice? The heroine does about six times as much talking as the hero."—Exchange.

Soliciting Insurance.

The Solicitor—We pay you if you die, if you are hurt, if you get sick. The Victim—How much if I get sick of paying the premium?—Albany Argus.

The Poet Again.

He had long hair and a pensive look. He wrote a poem entitled "Why Do I Live?" He signed it Augustus and sent it to a magazine.

The editor wrote him as follows: "My dear Augustus—The reason why you live is because you sent the poem by mail instead of bringing it personally."—Paris Journal.

Her Compensation.

Her Ladyship—You are a disgrace to your title—barred from decent society and expelled from all your clubs for crooked gambling and dissipation—and, though I am from common stock, I've paid all your debts and kept you in luxury. I'd like to know what I've had out of our marriage. Lord Blacksheep—Dash it all, woman, haven't I made you my equal?—Exchange.

In a Bad Way.

"Is he hard up?"

"I should say so. He can't even get credit for his good intentions."—Judge.

LINER MISSING WITH 700 ON BOARD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 28.—The big Elder-Dempster liner Appam, with almost 500 souls on board, is believed to have been sunk. The vessel was five days overdue today and had not reported by wireless.

A despatch to Lloyd's today states that the Hull steamer Tregantle reports that on January 16 she passed a lifeboat with the name "Appam," Liverpool, painted on the stern. Five feet of the lifeboat's bow had been knocked away. One life buoy was found.

The Appam displaced 7,781 tons and left Dakar January 11 for England. She had on board 200 passengers, 200 German prisoners and carried a crew of 80. She also had a large batch of mail aboard.

In Hard Luck

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Had you asked in the village of Lorain which was the happiest family in the community nine out of ten would have answered that Deacon Thurston and his wife filled the bill.

The deacon had never been known to get mad or to do a selfish action. His wife was seldom known to borrow, but was always willing to lend.

Of a summer evening they sat on the porch—sometimes for three hours—without speaking a word to each other.

After supper of a winter's evening the deacon built a roaring fire in the sitting room, and then with a candle in one hand and a blue pitcher in the other he descended to the cellar. The barrel of cider stood in the northeast corner. He knelt before it and drew exactly a pint and a half of its contents. This was a pint for himself and half a pint for his good wife. It was never more and never less. The apple bin stood against the south wall. He went to it and selected four fine Baldwins and put them in his coattail pocket and marched up the stairs. His wife was ready with a damp cloth to give the apples a wipe. Three of them were for the deacon and one for his wife.

One winter when the first snowfall came the deacon hitched up the old horse to the "pung," or homemade sled, and started for the woods. Four inches of snow had fallen, and it was a brisk morning. The old horse squealed and kicked up his heels, and the deacon heard himself saying:

"Well, if I ain't glad to be alive this morning, though they have raised my taxes $2 more this year!"

When the deacon and his outfit entered the woods there was a rabbit's trail leading in the direction he wanted to go. He therefore followed it. It led into the woods and stopped at a hollow log.

The deacon advanced to the log and with the head of his ax struck a resounding blow. He did not see whether the rabbit ran out or not. His ear caught a jingling sound, and in the excitement the presence of bunny was entirely forgotten. It was a jingle of money—not greenbacks, but solid coin.

Five minutes later he was splitting the old log wide open and his eyes were bulging out and his cheeks were pale. There was coin before him—heaps of coin. It was all silver coin.

One, two, three, four capfuls of silver treasure. He carried each capful to the sled and emptied its contents upon the horse blanket. When all the money had been gathered he tied up the blanket. When he finally mounted the sled he gave the old horse three or four sharp cuts with the whip. They were the first blows the old nag had ever received at his hands, and they started him out at a lumbering gallop.

Horse and driver appeared at home in a sweat. They did not stop at the kitchen door, though Mrs. Thurston was there to ask what had happened

"S-s-h! You go right into the house, Judith, and I will be there in a minute."

In five minutes he followed after her and laid the bundle of coin on the kitchen table with a clink that made her exclaim:

"Oh, deacon, have you picked up a lot of horseshoes?"

"Horseshoes nothing!!" he whispered as he untied the blanket and folded it back.

"Why, it's silver—it's money!"

"Of course it is, and I didn't rob anybody to get it either I found it in a holler log."

"Deacon, we are rich!" whispered the wife as she locked the kitchen door and pulled down the shades.

"You bet we are," replied the deacon. Help me count the money."

They counted it. It took them a full hour, but it was over at last, and there was just $5,000.

"Deacon," said she after a moment, "we allus wanted to go to Niagara Falls and see the water wasting itself, but you could never spare the money. We will go now, won't we?"

The deacon was silent, but there was such a look on his face as she had never seen before. It was a look of avarice and selfishness combined, and it was not good to see. She had to repeat her question before he replied.

"Judith, I want you to understand," said the deacon as he walked backward and forward, "there is to be no nonsense about this money. I may have to go to Niagara Falls on business, but you will stay at home and care for the house. I shall have to have a new suit of clothes, but you can get along with your old ones."

"But I have not had a new bonnet in fourteen years," she wailed.

"Your old one is all right."

And that treasure from the hollow log bred dissension almost within the hour it was found. Husband and wife took opposite stands, and things were getting ripe for a separation when the deacon passed one of the coins at the grocery. The grocer found it counterfeit, and the whole pile of silver was overhauled, to find that every coin was bogus. It had been hidden in the log by those who made it. When the sad truth stood revealed and the deacon had fumed and fretted and his wife had shed a few tears he stood before her and queried:

"Well, Judith, what are we going to do about it?"

"Quit being idiots," she answered.

And they then and there quit.

Cromwell's Way.

In the days when Oliver Cromwell was lord protector of England there was no fine discrimination to favor members of an embassy. When such members committed crimes against the law of the land they were held to the same accountability as though they had been natives. So it was that on July 10, 1653, Don Pantaleon Sa, a Portuguese nobleman, brother of the ambassador from that country to England and a knight of Malta, was beheaded on Tower hill. He had killed an Englishman, mistaking him for another. The Portuguese took refuge with his brother, the ambassador, who claimed that by the law of nations his house was an inviolable sanctuary for all his countrymen. Cromwell sent a messenger to state that if the criminal was not given up to the civil authorities the soldiers would be withdrawn from guarding the embassy and the mob left to do as it pleased. Every effort was made by the Portuguese and other ambassadors to save Don Pantaleon's life, but without avail. Cromwell made no other reply than, "Blood has been shed, and justice must be satisfied."—Indianapolis News.

Thackeray at Oxford.

An old story of Oxford and Thackeray is recalled by Thomas Plowman, who vouches in the Cornhill Magazine for the accuracy of his version. Thackeray had to apply to the vice chancellor for permission to lecture and found that gentleman ignorant alike of his name and fame.

Still, he had a trump card left, which he had been accustomed to consider would carry all before it wherever the English language was spoken. So, with a quiet smile of supreme confidence, he simply ejaculated, "'Vanity Fair,' you know!" Then at last, to his relief, a look of awakened intelligence manifested itself upon the vice chancellor's countenance, and Thackeray awaited the effusive outburst which would make amends for all. It came in the words, "Yes, yes, I have heard of 'Vanity Fair,' of course; it is mentioned in the 'Pilgrim's Progress.'"—Westminster Gazette.

To Make Copper Oxide.

An excellent way to make copper oxide for use in batteries is as follows: Take a quantity of copper filings or fine copper shavings and heat them in a cast iron container or in a crucible till they are red hot. Stir them with an iron rod, and while still stirring sprinkle a little water over the filings until they become ocher red. You will then have a good quality of copper oxide.

Copper oxide plates may be made as follows: Mix the granulated or coarse copper oxide with 5 per cent or 10 per cent of magnesium chloride and heat the heavy mass in forms made of iron sheeting, the forms being of the size of the wanted plate. The more chloride of magnesium used the more porous the plates will be. The coarser the copper oxide the better will be the results.—Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance.

Magnet the Thief of Time.

The magnet is responsible for a great deal of trouble with watches, as any jeweler will tell you. Never go near a dynamo with a watch in your pocket unless you are sure that it is made of nonmagnetic material. This applies especially to the hair spring.—Farm and Fireside.

A Blessed Barrier.

"How did you like that interior setting?" asked the realistic producer. "For a real room, except that it had only three walls, could you beat it?"

"Well," said the morose critic, "I'd have been more contented during the play if you had added the fourth wall."—Judge.

Washington, Jan. 28.—President Wilson today sent to the senate the nomination of Louis Dembitz Brandeis of Boston to be supreme court judge to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Joseph Rucker Lamar.

Mr. Brandeis always has been known as an independent in politics with leanings towards the Democratic party.

Mr. Brandeis is the first man of the Jewish faith to be named to the supreme court bench.

He is well known in the legal world. He was also chairman of the board of arbitration in the big garment workers' strike in New York in 1910.

He was counsel for the shippers in the advanced freight rate investigation before the interstate commission; he was counsel for the people in the proceedings involving the constitutionality of the Oregon and Illinois ten-hour laws for women.

Mr. Brandeis is 59 years old. He was born November 13, 1856, at Louisville, Ky. He obtained his early education in the public and high schools of Louisville and later went abroad where he attended Annen Realschule at Dresden, Germany. Later he went to Harvard where he obtained his law degree in 1877. The following year he was admitted to the bar.

Earned a Half Holiday.

Most of the grammar school children enjoyed a half holiday this afternoon, having "made their per cent" in attendance. They dropped their overcoats and entered with all their hearts in the various activities that only school children know how to enjoy—"miggles," roller skating and spinning tops. The unfortunates, who were very few in number, looked out of the school windows while they should be learning the location of the Black Sea or the arithmetical advantage of 2x2.

YOUNG HORSE THIEF IS FEEBLE MINDED

Charles Newkirk, the 16 year old horse thief, of New Paltz, who pleaded guilty through his attorney, Newton Fessenden, to the charge of grand larceny in the second degree at the last term of county court, has been committed by Judge Jenkins to the Letchworth village, a state institution for feeble minded children, at Thiels in Rockland county.

Drs. Chandler and E. H. Loughran examined the boy this week and found him weak mentally and as a result of this and other investigations into the life of the boy Judge Jenkins decided that the law of humanity, instead of the strict provisions of the criminal law, should be applied. Miss Gertrude Bruyn, county agent for dependent children, and Mrs. Laura MacMillan of the social service board spent much time investigating the life of the youthful offender and found that he had been criminally inclined through his whole life.

With other young law breakers he had gotten in trouble in New Paltz several times and was sentenced at one time to the House of Industry at Rochester. Newkirk is undeveloped and appears younger than his age by several years. His mother requested the judge to commit her son to an institution rather than have him branded all his life as a criminal.

Going to the Revival Meetings?

The active animals as well as those which hibernate have been deluded by the warm weather of the past two days into believing that spring had arrived, and several squirrels have been seen in various parts of town. One squirrel appeared about noon today near the corner of Main and Fair street, where it excited attention. Finally the squirrel became frightened and ran up one of the big trees in front of the Preston building. When it reached one of the big upper limbs, it ran out to the end and then leaped to the roof of St. James's Methodist Episcopal Church, where it disappeared.

SLANDER.

The many persons who are always quick to spread evil reports about other persons should ponder these words of Henry van Dyke: "Never believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know it is true and never tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary."

THE SHADOWS.

Do not borrow trouble and do not anticipate misfortunes. Were a man's sorrows and disquietudes summed up at the end of his life it would generally be found that he had suffered more from the apprehension of such evils as never happened to him than from those evils which had really befallen him.

ADVERTISEMENT WRITING.

"DIED of Slip-Shod Advertising Methods" could be written over the grave of many a dead business. "Oh, that's good enough," is the siren song that has lured store after store onto the shoals of bankruptcy or financial disaster. Advertising pays if judiciously written; careless methods are extravagance. My advertisement, booklet and circular building weaves itself into the woof and warp of the fabric that binds trade together. Write me for terms. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

THOUSANDS DRIVEN OUT BY FLOODS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 28.—A thousand families in Desha and adjoining counties in Arkansas along the White and Arkansas rivers, driven from their homes by the biggest flood ever known in that section, were rescued today from the tops of trees after enduring a drenching rain all night. Among those rescued were many mothers with babes in their arms.

At Lundel, Ark., the river rose six feet last night forcing hundreds of persons to take refuge on small skiffs or tree tops. Rescue parties have gone to their aid.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Elisha Ayers, an old and respected resident of High Falls, who has been stopping with his son, William, at the Central House, died on Tuesday evening at the age of 74 years. Funeral was held from the Central House at 3 p. m. on Thursday. Interment High Falls Friday afternoon. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and three sons, Mrs. A. McCreery, Mrs. Robert Terns and Mrs. Arthur Reed, and William, Elmer and Arthur.

Dr. Calvin Emerick, who died of pneumonia at his home in Glasco about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, was a native of the town of Saugerties, having been born at Evesport, and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Emerick. He was in the 46th year of his age. Dr. Emerick was a graduate of the Albany Medical College, and a very successful practitioner, enjoying a large and extensive practice throughout the lower part of the town and also in the town of Ulster, where he held the position as health officer. He formerly practiced in Woodstock and came from there to Glasco. The deceased was affiliated with the Masonic, Odd Fellows, Red Men's and firemanic fraternities. He held membership in Ulster Lodge, No. 193, F. & A. M., and Esopus Tribe, No. 482, Imp. O. R. M., of Saugerties, Bearsville Lodge, No. 533, I. O. O. F., of Bearsville, and Mulford Engine Co., of Glasco. In these organizations he was highly regarded and much respected. Dr. Emerick was fond of hunting and fishing, and was connected with the Saugerties Fish and Game Club. At one time he held the position of state fish and game protector for this county, and during his term succeeded in stopping many violations of these laws. That Dr. Emerick was cut down in the prime of his professional career and usefulness is a source of great regret, especially among the very many whom he had helped back to health, and his early and aparently untimely passing shocks and grieves all who knew him. The doctor is survived by a wife, his aged parents, four sisters and a brother, Dr. Luther Emerick of Saugerties. The funeral services Sunday at 1:30 o'clock, will be held at the late residence. Esopus Tribe will be in charge of the services.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—There was a show of strength in the stock market at the opening today with substantial gains in many important issues, but the demand was supplied quickly and before the end of the first 15 minutes numerous stocks were pressed for sale and yielded to below yesterday's close. The war order issues were among the strongest features at the outset, Industrial Alcohol rising 2¾ to 153¾ and Crucible Steel 2 points to 69¼. There was a good demand for Steel Common, which rose ⅝ to 84, but it lost the gain in the next few minutes. American Can opened ⅛ higher at 63¾ and then declined to 62⅞. Erie dropped ½ to 36⅜ and Union Pacific ¾ to 134. Mexican Petroleum moved up ⅞ to 103⅜ followed by a reaction to 102½. The remainder of the list moved in about the same way with nearly all the active issues in free supply. Part of the selling was for foreign account.

During the late forenoon the demand for stocks increased and nearly everything on the list made substancial gains. The war order issues assumed the most prominent position, with most interest attached to Crucible Steel which advanced to 71, a new high mark for the year and a gain of 3¾ points for the morning. Baldwin Locomotive was in brisk demand, rising 2 points to 109½. Lackawanna Steel advanced 1⅜ to 81½ and many of the minor industrials were active and strong, Pressed Steel Car advancing 1½ to 57, Colorado Fuel 1¼ to 45¾, and Great Northern Ore 1½ to 45¾. Many of th old time standard issues were in good request, Interborough consolidated preferred advancing 1½ to 75½ and American Tel. and Tel., Western Union and American Smelting all made fractional gains. Money lending 1¾.

Price movements in the late afternoon were narrow, some issues making fractional gains, which were followed by moderate reactions. Marine preferred showed a better tone, advancing a point to 82¼. Crucible Steel sold up to 75⅛, a gain in all of over six points. American Can advanced a point to 64⅜, followed by a reaction to 63¾.

The market closed easy. The demand was less active late in the day and toward the end profit taking caused important recession. New Haven showed extreme weakness on reports that a preferred stock issue would be made. This stock fell 3 points to 68. The setback in New Haven caused fresh confidence among the bears. Crucible Steel yielded about a point from the top. Government bonds unchanged; others strong.

The Dog Rose.

The "dog rose" has provoked as much ingenious explanation of its name as the "horse chestnut." One solution is that the "dog" is really "dagga," a dagger, in allusion to the prickles, a drawback from which the Alexandra Day rose is free. Unfortunately for this explanation, the flower bears a similar name in countries where it will not apply. The Germans, for instance, have "Hundsrose," and Pliny tells how a Roman mother was moved in a dream to send some roots of the wild rose to her soldier son in Spain. They arrived just after he had been bitten by a mad dog. He took them and was preserved from hydrophobia, as were others who adopted the same treatment. And from that time the wild rose became the "dog rose."—London Chronicle.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy entertained a number of their friends at a dance last night at their home on Andrew street.

The members of Colonial City Lodge spent a delightful afternoon at the home of Mrs. Minnie L. Silkworth, No. 350 Hasbrouck avenue, on Wednesday. They presented Sister Silkworth with a beautiful vase in appreciation of her services, she having served as treasurer and collector of the society. President Mary E. Kogel and Secretary Abbie M. Chambers were also remembered with appropriate gifts. The guests enjoyed progressive pinochle, and prizes were awarded the winners. Delicious refreshments were served.

On Tuesday evening, January 25, Mr. Hargraves took a party of young people for a sleigh ride from Kingston to St. Ann's Hall, Sawkill. At Sawkill the young people enjoyed dancing. Among those who enjoyed the sleigh ride were: Cecelia Goldpaugh, Edward Smedes, Elizabeth Goldpaugh, William Hulsair, Elizabeth Howard, Charles Goble, Nellie O'Brien, George Webster, Anna Carroll, John McSpiritt, Margaret Helder, James Mastin, Mary O'Brien, Adrian Lebert, Mary Goldpaugh, Kenneth Herdman, Clair Goldpaugh, Teddy Riccabono, Elizabeth Haggerty and John Lewis.

All those who participated in the Elks minstrels a few weeks ago were entertained at a banquet last night at the Elks' home on Fair street by the house committee. Aaron Cohen, president of the Colonial Glee Club, acted as toastmaster. Brief speeches were made by Dr. E. E. Henry and Philip Fitzpatrick and those present showed their appreciation of Dr. and Mrs. Chandler's untiring work for the minstrels by a rising vote of thanks. Following the minstrels Muller's orchestra furnished music for dancing and several songs were sung by the minstrels and others. Aaron Cohen drew several crayon pictures of local faces which afforded great amusement. Refreshments were served during the dancing and at a late hour the joy makers departed from the general hospitality of the Elks to their homes.

Werbalowsky-Meyer.

Benjamin Werbalowsky of No. 58 Meadow street and Miss Goldie Meyer of No. 90 Broadway, were united in marriage on January 20, at New York city by the Rev. Morris Dubrin. The witnesses were Julius Bernstein and Max Levin.

A Roller Skating Auxiliary.

The warm weather today and sidewalks free from ice brought out scores of boys and girls on roller skates. One group of boys and girls who raced along the sidewalk on Fair street between Main and John streets made use of a dog in order to gain time. The boys took turns in holding the dog by the collar, and then by urging to "Sic 'em, Towser," they were carried along at a rapid rate from one end of the block to the other.

JOKER IN AUTO LEAGUE AGREEMENT

Elmira Contingent Paid $10 Each For the Privilege of Being Sued—Some Settle, Others Will Fight.

A meeting of about fifteen of the 100 Elmira motorists who paid $10 each for the privilege of becoming members of the International Automobile League, Inc., was held recently. This was supposed to entitle them to the privilege of buying tires, oils and various accessories at cost prices. They were to save fabulous sums.

Some Elmirans joined the league six or seven years ago, and failing to discover the joker in their agreement, now find themselves liable to suit to recover anywhere from $10 $50. One member, John C. Zimmerman, of 117 Lormore street, already has been served with papers in an action to recover $60, which is $10 a year for six years. He will fight the case, and has retained Attorney M. O'Connor. He says he never tried to buy of the league only once, and that purchase was unsatisfactory.

Other Elmirans have settled with the league and some have compromised. Some others will fight. They have been informed that unless they settle at once suit will begin. The cases are brought in court in Buffalo. That the league is making a wholesale business of it is shown by the printed blank forms of complaint which have been served.

A clever salesman interested the Elmirans in the game, as they did men all over the state. They signed and paid their $10 for one year's membership. The thing which they signed and to which they paid no attention in after years when bills were sent them, now appears to have read: "I hereby make application for membership * * * etc., * * * my membership to continue from year to year under the same terms (of $10 a year) unless I notify the league in writing 30 days prior to the expiration of membership."

The application also says: "If I purchase supplies for any machine other than my own, it is hereby understood that I forfeit my membership."

The new membership application is even more strict. It says: "My membership is to begin, if my application is accepted, within five days after this application reaches the home office and to run until notice of discontinuance thereof. Such notice shall be given over my signature by registered letter at least 60 days before the expiration of any year thereof and only while not in arrears."

The last sentence of them is in blackface type. Some of the Elmirans signed under the old application, some under the new. At this meeting, when the light was flashed on the men present, they went forth and sent in their registered letter resignations. It developed that some of them also had obtained membership for as low as $5 and that many of them had been unable to get what they wanted to buy through the league.

In Mr. Zimmerman's case, he joined in 1909 and paid that year. He was dissatisfied with his purchases and paid no more attention to the thing. Because he failed to serve formal notice that he would not renew his membership, now he is defendant in a suit to recover $60. Others will be in the same fix. Some became scared and settled. The concern is located in Buffalo.

It was the consensus of opinion of the meeting that the matter should be made plain to all members of the Elmira Automobile Club and through them every motor club and motorist in the state should be told of the nature of the application offered by this concern and of the way it operates.—Motordom.

Marbles Made Iceman Ponder.

With the springlike weather of the past week marbles have been in evidence on the sidewalks. The face of one local iceman watching this form of January enjoyment was a study. But he will cheer up with the rest of them at the weather report of a cold wave sweeping this way from the west.

"Wealthy magnates are a menace to baseball," asserts Bob Hedges, ex-owner of the Browns. "The owners with huge bankrolls can go the limit in purchasing talent. This eventually makes a league top-heavy."

Is Hedges right—or wrong?

The greatest team ever welded together in American League history was Connie Mack's Athletics. Connie didn't pay much more for his stars than the ordinary man pays in one year for cigars.

The Giant club is supposed to be backed by wealth. An unlimited bankroll was at the command of John McGraw in 1915—and the Giants finished last.

Charlie Comisky spent more than $100,000 in trying to "buy" a pennant winner. He failed.

The Phillie owners are not wealthy, yet they breezed under the wire a winner in 1915—and with a bunch of misfits making up the club.

"I never saw a man who could stand up under punishment the way Moran did. I hit him harder and oftener than I ever hit any other man, but I couldn't put him down. I wore myself out hitting him."

Fred Clarke, oncetime Pirate leader, is spending his leisure in shooting clay targets. Clarke is an expert trapshot and averages around 90 hits in every 100 trials.

The owners want $560,000 for the collection. Prospective buyers bid $450,000. Why not weigh the heads of the players and so arrive at a fair figure?

"Topay" Hartsel, former Athletic star, is making money through the operation of an automatic baseball machine in Toledo. The machine pitches the balls and the player acts as batsman. The object is to drive the ball against a canvas. Points are scored according to where the ball hits.

Alec Goodman, trainer for Ted Lewis, the English welterweight, must feed his charges some secret prescription. In no other way can the folks figure out how Lewis can fight at 135 pounds one week, 145 the next, and 135 again two weeks later.

Goodman is a wizard in his knowledge of diets and he keeps Lewis in perfect physical condition despite the fact that Lewis fluctuates 10 pounds in weight two and three times a month.

MIDGET WONDERS

Another high school athletic organization that is making a name for itself is the "Midget" basketball five, a team of young basketball tossers the average weight of which is less than 110 pounds.

Thursday afternoon they enjoyed themselves immensely at the expense of the Miami five, outclassing them by the self-explanatory score of 55 to 13. The victory was more glorious than usual on account of the lack of individual playing. It was a passing game throughout and there was very little dribbling. All of the young athletes played good and their eyesight so far as basket-shooting is concerned is shown by the large score, which follows:

Looking For Games.

The Midgets are looking for games with teams under 110 pounds as the average weight. Any five in this vicinity will be played qualifying to that condition and which is of a good reputation. The Midgets are seeking the championship of this vicinity for teams of their weight and are to schedule several out-of-town games.

A game has been scheduled with the Rhinecliff midgets for next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in the high school gymnasium. Games will probably be scheduled with Newburgh and Poughkeepsie teams.

FIELD OF SPORTS.

Notes of Baseball, Pugilism and Other Lines of Athletics.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—Firmin Cassignol, the French billiardist, has challenged Willie Hoppe to a contest at either 18.1 or 18.2 balk line, for the title. Hoppe holds both these titles. The champion is now in the west on an exhibition tour with Yamada, the Japanese player.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 28.—To show the world that he is a likely opponent of Jess Willard, Fred Fulton is in fine fettle for his twenty round bout with Porky Flynn tonight. The Minnesota heavyweight expects to win handily. Flynn also is in good shape and has been trained for the bout by Sam Langford. Flynn says he will shatter Fulton's confidence.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 8.—The Colgate University basketball five was defeated by the University of Pittsburgh in a fast game last night by a score of 27 to 23.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 28.—Fred Toney wants $6,000 to pitch for the Reds this year. If his terms are accepted he will guarantee to win 25 or 30 games, provided the team makes at least four runs in every game he pitches. The club has offered Toney $4,000.

New York, Jan. 28.—A new star shone on the wrestling horizon today. From out of the west came Joe Stecher, a big strong farmer boy from Dodge Neb. He met the "Masked Marvel" (Mort Henderson) last night and stripped the mysterious one of all his mystery. The pair met in a catch-as-catch-can match, best two in three falls. Stecher was in a hurry. He wanted to show the eastern fans that he was some mat artist. He made good. Two falls finished the match. They were secured so quickly that before the crowd realized it the "Masked One" had lost. Stecher used his famous scissors hold in securing both falls. The first time he pinned his opponent's shoulders to the mat in nine minutes and 50 seconds; the second time he only took five minutes and 51 seconds.

Why Pessimist Is Not Loved.

The trouble about being a pessimist is that the oftener your judgment proves correct the less people like you.

Are You On?

Stude—I want my hair cut.
Barber—Any special way?
Stude—Yes; off.—Cornell Widow.

Self-Examination First.

No one can hope to make any real progress in the pursuit and apprehension of truth who does not industriously ply the broom of impartial judgment, mercilessly sweeping down the cobwebs of misconception and error. Part of this work we can do for others, but we must begin by removing the beam from our own eye before seeking to cast out the mote that dims our brother's vision.—Zion's Herald.

Need for Sobriety of Mind.

Sobriety of mind is one of those virtues which the present condition of human life strongly inculcates. The uncertainty of its enjoyments checks presumption; the multiplicity of its dangers demands perpetual caution. Moderation, vigilance and self-government, are duties incumbent on all; but especially on such as are beginning the journey of life.—Dr. H. Blair.
